Israelis push deep into Egypt

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Israeli assault forces crossing the Suez Canal have pierced tough resistance 12 to 15 miles inside Egypt proper, the Israeli military command claimed tonight.

New tank battles raged today on the Syrian front and in a crucial fight along the Suez Canal as Israel broadened its hold on the western bank with reinforcements ferried across the waterway, Tel Aviv claimed.

Cairo said the Israeli report of a major thrust into Egypt was false and claimed the large-scale attack had been repelled. Israeli units are infiltrating across the canal at night, Egypt conceded, but claimed they were being surrounded and one unit was wiped out.

The Russian Embassy in Cairo said that Soviet Premier Alexei N. Kosygin returned to Moscow today from Cairo after four days of secret talks with President Anwar Sadat on "all questions of common interest." He declined to say whether peace proposals were part of their discussions.

Secretary of State Henry A. Kissinger continued talks in Washington with Soviet Ambassador Anatoly F. Dobrynin. But despite the high-level contacts, officials predicted no quick end to the war. The fighting went on for the 14th day.

The Israeli command said its forces continued their attacks on Egyptian positions east of the Suez Canal in the Israeli occupied Sinai Desert and around the bridgehead that Israel said Thursday it had established on the western bank of the canal, in Egyptian territory.

"In a series of battles being waged since this morning, dozens of enemy tanks, missile batteries and infantry deployments have been destroyed," a communique said.

The Israeli beachhead on the western bank of the canal would be the first time the Middle East ground war came to the Egyptian heartland, although Israeli jets have been striking targets in the Nile Delta. But an official Egyptian spokesman in Cairo scoffed at the claim and depicted the Israeli force as commandos on a series of raids.

"A group of foreign correspondents are visiting the Sinai battlefront today to prove that the Israeli claims are false," he added.

The Israelis said their planes and tanks on the Syrian front repulsed a combined attack by Syrian, Iraqi and Jordanian infantry and tanks. They claimed the Arabs took severe losses.

Benton man asks permission to open new landfill in county

BENTON— William E. Schlosser of Benton appeared before the Scott County Court Thursday to request permission to open a sanitary landfill.

Schlosser told the court his property, located two miles south of Benton on Highway 61, would be the ideal place to operate a landfill.

"My land has passed state inspection," he added. The present landfill site operated by the County Court, located one mile north of Morley on Highway 61 has failed to pass a state inspection. But according to Presiding Judge Les Lankford, the landfill will be brought up to minimum state standards within a week.

Schlosser told the court that if they would allow him to operate the landfill for the entire county he could be in operation within a week. Schlosser said he would not have to purchase additional equipment to operate the landfill.

Schlosser's land has not been surveyed, but he said, he would survey the land if the court would appoint him to operate the landfill.

First District Judge Eldon Ziegenhorn told Schlosser the County Court had already seen two men fail in their efforts to operate a landfill and the court wanted to try it another way.

"The Scott County Mayors Association took a vote by the people to see how they wanted a landfill and they voted to let the county operate it," Second District Judge Louie Hirschowitz said.

The court suggested to Schlosser that he submit a bid on his land.

The court announced Oct. 4 that it had leased the landfill north of Morley for three months. Lankford said the court would receive bids during the three months period on alternate landfill sites.

The County Mayors Association on Oct. 9 voted unanimously to recommend to the County Court that it purchase the landfill site.

7 hurt in SeMo accidents

Seven persons were injured in four area traffic accidents Thursday, according to the highway patrol.

Four persons were injured at 5:40 p.m. on Highway 21 six miles north of Doniphan when a southbound pickup truck driven by Arthur Lassen, 66, of Doniphan attempted to make a left turn onto Route K and was struck by a northbound car driven by Bryant Leroux, 20, of Doniphan. The patrol said Leroux came over a hillcrest at an excessive rate of speed and struck the Lassen auto.

Lassen received left arm and side injuries and his wife, Hazel Lassen, 62, suffered bruises and scratches. Leroux and a passenger in his car, Danny Leroux, 15, suffered head cuts. All four were taken to Ripley County Hospital in Doniphan.

A tractor- trailer truck overturned at 8:15 p.m. on Route A two miles east of Williamsville when the driver, Paul Eugene Ballard, 26, of Ellsinore, rounded a curve and the shifting of his load caused him to lose control and run off the road.

Ballard received a possible shoulder, neck and hip injuries and was taken to Lucy Lee Hospital in Poplar Bluff.

A car and a minibike collided at 4:40 p.m. at the intersection of two unmarked roads one mile north of East Prairie.

Jimmy McMillan, 15, of East Prairie received serious head injuries when his minibike ran into a car driven by Joel Stewart, 71, of East Prairie. He was taken to Missouri Delta Community Hospital in Sikeston.

Oscar McNew, 40, of Doniphan received a cut on the ear in an accident at 5:50 p.m. nine miles north of Doniphan on Highway 21.

The accident occurred when the steering mechanism on his truck tractor broke, causing him to lose control and run off the road into a ditch.

He was taken to Ripley County Hospital.

Mrs. Wallhausen named Woman of the Year

By SHIRLEY PRITCHETT

CHARLESTON-- Mrs. Mildred "Millie" Wallhausen was named Woman of the Year for 1973- 74 Thursday night, climaxing the eighth annual Woman of the Year event sponsored by the Business and Professional Women's Club at the National Guard Armory.

The announcement was made by Mrs. Mildred Smith, who earlier in the evening was presented as Honorary Woman of the Year by Miss Frances Daniel, president of the Business and Professional Women's Club.

Mrs. Wallhausen, cited as a "selfless" person devoted to her family, young people and her community, is publisher of the Enterprise- Courier newspaper and writes a weekly column, "Millie's Soapbox".

As a Sunday School teacher, chapter mother of the Future Homemakers of America of Charleston High School, and former Boy Scout and Girl Scout leader, much of her time has been devoted to the young people of the community.

She has served on the State Health Planning Council since 1970, is an active member and past president of the Athena Club, member of the Retail Merchants Committee and Chamber of Commerce and an associate member of the Katherine Boone Music Club.

She and her husband, the late Art Wallhausen Sr., are the parent of two children, Art Wallhausen Jr., editor of the Enterprise- Courier and Mrs. James Anderson of Sacramento, Calif. She has four grandchildren and has cared for two foster children in the past two years.

Mrs. Smith, the Honorary Woman of the Year, was described by Miss Daniel as a person with a bubbling personality and one who never says no when asked for help. Helping others has been her chosen avocation, whether in the business world or in her personal life, according to Miss Daniel, who said her motto is "happiness is helping others and when I am doing something for someone, it brings me joy."

Both ladies received arm bouquets of roses and engraved silver trays.

Dr. Orlo M. Brees of New York City was the featured speaker of the program.

During a humorous talk based on the subject, "Grist for the Grin Mill", Dr. Brees listed disposition, sense of humor, a work to do you love to do and a spirit of cooperation as the four major parts of a person's "grin mill".

Mrs. Warren Hearnes served as toastmistress for the evening and entertainment was presented by soloist Stephen Barr, accompanied at the paino by Mrs. Carter Fenton. The Rev. Thomas Wilks, pastor of First Baptist Church, gave the invocation and benediction.

Clubs submitting nominees for the event were the Athena Club, Junior Study Club, Katherine Boone Music Club, Kiwanis Club and the Molly French Garden Club.

Grisso sentenced to 10 years

CHARLESTON — Billy Wayne Grisso, 27, of Charleston Route Three withdrew his plea of innocent and entered a voluntary plea of guilty to charges of burglary and stealing, assault with intent to kill and a second charge of burglary Wednesday morning before Circuit Judge Marshall Craig.

Judge Craig sentenced Grisso to 10 years in custody of the State Department of Correction on each of the burglary charges, five years on the stealing charge and 15 years on the assault charge,with sentences to run concurrently. He was given credit for 165 days spent in the county jail since his arrest.

Grisso was charged with entering the home of Mrs. Elizabeth "Sis" Webb in Charleston May 4 and assaulting her with his hands after demanding money. The burglary and stealing charges were in connection with the break-in and burglary of the Mississippi County Court house the same day. A tear gas gun was stolen from the office of Sheriff W. J. "Pedro" Simmons during the break-in.

A request from Grisso's attorney for a probation investigation was granted and Grisso was returned to jail pending Judge Craig's ruling on the report.

A charge of breaking jail and escaping custody before conviction is still pending against Grisso, who jumped from the second floor of the jail June 19.

Mary T. Marshall of Charleston entered a written plea of guilty to a driving while intoxicated charge and was fined $100 plus court costs.

Larry David Williams entered a plea of guilty to a charge of carrying a concealed weapon. A probation investigation was ordered and Williams is to appear back in Circuit Court Nov. 16.

A uniform support suit brought by Margaret Anne Willis against William Monroe Willis was dismissed by Mrs. Willis.

Sikeston man held as suspect in Marianna, Ark. rape case

MARIANNA, Ark. — Tommy Lee Thompson, 26, of Sikeston, Mo., was being held in the Lee County jail today without bond for the alleged rape of a white woman at knifepoint and the attempted robbery of a local cafe about 30 minutes earlier.

Deputy Sheriff M. B. Branan said a black man wearing a hood and carrying a butcher knife attempted to rob the cafe about 9:30 p.m. Tuesday but was unsuccessful and fled.

About 30 minutes later, a Marianna woman saw someone crawling through a window in her home. She dialed the telephone operator who called police. The woman was taken into the woods behind her house and raped, Branan said.

A state trooper arrived at the house and heard the woman scream before her attacker fled.

Thompson was arrested about 6 p.m. Wednesday after being tracked by bloodhounds from Cummins Prison Farm. He was found hiding in bushes in Phillips County just across the Lee County line. A butcher knife was confiscated, Branan said.

The deputy said Thompson had recently been

Mailing deadlines announced

In announcing this year's Christmas mailing deadlines, Sikeston postmaster Don Pasaka urges customers to mail their Christmas cards and parcels as early as possible.

Within the United States, letters going by surface mail should be mailed by Dec. 15, while parcels should be mailed by Dec. 10. Letters and parcels traveling by air mail in the United States should be mailed by Dec. 21.

The deadline for letters to Alaska and Hawaii traveling by surface mail has been set for Dec. 15, while the parcel deadline is Nov. 30. Air mail deadlines to Alaska and Hawaii are Dec. 20 for letters and parcels.

Deadlines range from Oct. 27 to Dec. 11 for sending Christmas mail to armed forces personnel overseas. Pasaka said there are no plans for special Defense Department airlifts of Christmas gifts to servicemen overseas this year.

He said the U. S. Postal Service will handle Christmas mail within the United States and the Military Airlift Command will handle mail flights to overseas areas as required.

Deadlines for Christmas mail to servicemen overseas are:

Canada, Arctica- Greenland, Labrador and Newfoundland — Dec. 8 for air mail, Nov. 30 for Parcel Air Lift (Pal) and Nov. 24 for Space Available Mail (SAM) and surface mail.

South America and Central America — Dec. 1 for air mail, Nov. 17 for PAL, Nov. 10 for SAM and surface mail.

Europe — Dec. 11 for air mail, Nov. 27 for PAL, Nov. 20 for SAM and Nov. 10 for surface mail.

Azores — Dec. 8 for air mail, Nov. 30 for PAL and Nov. 24 for SAM and surface mail.

Africa — Dec. 28 for air mail, Nov. 17 for PAL and Nov. 10 for SAM surface mail.

Iran, Israel, Saudi Arabia and Turkey — Dec. 1 for air mail, Nov. 7 for PAL and Nov. 1 for SAM and air mail.

Far East — Dec. 1 for air mail, Nov. 27 for PAL, Nov. 20 for SAM and Oct. 27 for surface mail.

Deadlines for mail to Canada and Mexico are Dec. 19 for air greeting cards, Dec. 14 for air parcels, Dec. 7 for surface greeting cards, Dec. 1 for surface parcels.

Deadlines for international mail to South America, Central America and Euorpe are Dec. 16 for air greeting cards, Dec. 11 for air parcels, Nov. 17 for surface greeting cards and Nov. 10 for surface parcels.

Africa and Near East international mailing deadlines are Dec. 14 for air greeting cards, Dec. 8 for air parcels, Nov. 4 for surface greeting cards and Nov. 1 for surface parcels.

Deadlines for the Far East are Dec. 14 for air greeting cards, Dec. 8 for air parcels, Oct. 25 for surface greeting cards and Oct. 15 for surface parcels.

HATING REQUIRES
A SCORECARD

It was an amusing little news item — about the Jewish talent agent in New York who posed as an Arab for a recent cover of Newsweek magazine for a story about the "Arab oil squeeze" because he couldn't find a real Arab.

It was amusing, and not a little poignant. You can't tell a Jew from an Arab just by looking. You can't tell whom to hate without a scorecard.

Both Jews and Arabs are members of the Semitic race, whatever "race" means - though it seems to mean a great deal to many people. Many Arabs are Israeli citizens, many Jews are citizens of Arab countries. Abraham is a reversed figure in the Islamic religion as well as the Hebrew. Jerusalem is a holy city to both.

Then what is all the hatred about? Well, of course, it is about a great many things. The Newsweek cover merely illustrates the well- proved fact of history that some of the world's most bitter rivalries have been between peoples who have the most in common, whether it is race or religion or anything else.

FORCED BUSING
HASN'T WORKED

About a year ago Prof. David Armor of Harvard University stirred up a storm of controversy when he released a study which indicated that in half-a-dozen causes of forced school busing, none of the Federal bureaucratic theories had been realized and in some cases the exact opposite has occurred.

Now another study has been published, this time by the Indiana Law Review, 735 West New York Street, Indianapolis, even more extensive than the first, which shows that far from achieving the alleged goals of busing, the situation has become worse, not better.

The study, conducted by Jeffery J. Leech, examines the results of school busing in ten major cities. His report: "In every city studied, busing failed to reduce the gap between black and white achievement. In fact, more cities reported that the achievement gap had grown even larger after busing."

Leech further reports that the results show "busing to be psychologically harmful rather than beneficial" and that "in no city did busing appear to increase interracial contact or better understanding."

The study concludes: "In light of the tremendous social, political and economic costs being paid for busing, the absence of any consistent educational gains, the deleterious psychological impact of busing upon black children, and the increasing polarization of the races ... a re-examination is long overdue."

Which is another way of saying: it is time to stop the foolishness of busing children to other schools far from their neighborhoods and get back to the job of seeing that every child -- black or white, and in whatever school he may be -- gets a better education. If we really want to help children, we had better pay more attention to what we put into their heads and hearts rather than where we put the seats of their pants.

According to the word we get, conservatives on Capitol Hill are outraged at the vicious White House treatment now being dished out to Vice President Spiro Agnew. When the Washington Post reported that the "Veep" would resign -- a happening that never took place -- White House and Administration sources continued to fuel the rumor, no matter how damaging to Agnew such stories might appear to be. Agnew last week clearly looked like the target of a White House effort to get him to resign. Not only has this been asserted by nationally syndicated columnist Victor Gold, once the vice president's press secretary, but a spokesman for Sen. Barry Goldwater dittoed Gold's observations. Moreover, Human Events has since learned from reliable sources that Len Garment, John Dean's successor at the White House, has been part of the anti-Agnew rumor mill.

In the view of many conservatives, the White House is letting Agnew, as they did to Pat Gray, twist slowly in the wind. The first major shots against Agnew resulted from leaks in the Justice Department, asserting that Agnew had taken bribes as both governor and vice president. Futhermore, the leaks came before any evidence involving Agnew had been presented to the grand jury.

Columnist Ralph de Toledano, a longtime Nixon supporter, reminded his readers how Eisenhower had failed to come to Nixon's support when he was accused of corruption. That failure, noted de Toledano, had always rankled Nixon. Now, said de Tolendano, Nixon's vice president is in trouble.

"And Mr. Nixon knows, better than anyone, whether Agnew is 'Clean as a hound's tooth' or tainted. It it is the latter, Mr. Nixon should have acted by calling for his resignation. If it is the former, then the President should be swinging both fists in Agnew's defense.

"Instead, after a pro-forma statement of support, Mr. Nixon has instigated, or, at the very least, allowed his White House subordinates to knife Spiro Agnew in ways both overt and covert."

Sen. James Buckley (C.-R.-N.Y.) observed:

"... There is a widespread suspicion among Spiro Agnew's associates that these resignation rumors were planted by someone in the White House. I sincerely hope that this is not true or, if it is true, that the person responsible for spreading these rumors has now been made to stop.

"I can think of no more unjust or senseless action than this water torture treatment of a man holding the second highest office in the land. It is my hope that the suspicion that these rumors are coming from the White House is wrong. But if they have a basis in fact, those responsible should be put on notice that Republicans and Americans in general will not accept such shabby, such cowardly treatment of the vice president of the United States."

CONDUCT PREDICTS
DRUG 'WEAKNESS'

Is there any way teachers or parents can predict with any degree of reliability whether a youngster will fool around with drugs? At least one study indicates that there is.

Junior high school students who get poor grades and flout school rules are signicantly more likely to use drugs during their high school years than more studious and orderly classmates.

This is one of the findings of a continuing five- year study of Boston elementary, junior and high school students being conducted by Dr. Gene M. Smith of Massachusetts General Hospital, under a grant from the National Institute of Mental Health.

The study is looking for answers in three areas:

(1) Why some students become regular drug users while others merely experiment with drugs briefly or ignore them; (2) how personality traits and academic performance serve as predictors of involvement with or disinterest in drugs; (3) what changes occur in attitudes, personality and behavior after the initiation of drug use.

In findings to date, the best indicator of subsequent use of illegal drugs is rebelliousness toward authorities and rules. Obedient children are the least likely to become drug users.

The more rebellious a child, the greater his subsequent use of drugs is apt to be, ranging from infrequent marijuana smoking through frequent marijuana use to multiple experimentation with and use of depressants, stimulants, LSD and other hallucinogens, and heroin.

Other reliable predictors of future drug use are classroom apathy and generally poor academic performance from middle grade school onward, and the early smoking of cigarettes.

Personality traits on which drug users score low are: Conscientiousness, dependability, striving for recognition, setting high goals, persistency, planfulness, thoroughness, efficiency, mannerliness and agreeableness.

Two traits which do not predict future drug use or nonuse are vigor and self-confidence.

There are marked personality differences between those students who have never used drugs and those who have, while infrequent and frequent drug users tend to have similar personalities.

The students are self- rated. They range from fourth graders to high school seniors and represent a simple of a predominatly white, middle-class high school population of 15,000 in 33 public schools in the Greater Boston area.

They fill out questionnaires each year in which they rate themsevles on traits of personality and behavior and identify their attitudes toward drugs and their use of drugs. School records furnish histories of academic performance, while a coding system guarantees confidentiality.

Participation is voluntary, but approximately 95 per cent of the students present on testing days have taken part in the study.

Incidentally, the study knocks a hole in the belief that "the parents drink and the kids smoke."

Heavy marijuana users are also heavy drinkers and the study finds no evidence that marijuana is supplanting alcohol among the younger generation.

AIR FARE RULING
COULD BOOMERANG

On the grounds that special discount airline tickets "discriminate" against other passengers, the Civil Aeronautics Board has ordered the discontinuance of "youth" fares and "family plan" fares.

Today, a college student, for example, can fly home on a space- available basis for one-third less than the regular fare. Under the CAB order, such fares will go up in stages, on June 1 and Dec. 1, and reach full fare on June 1, 1974. Similarly with families accompanying a businessman-husband.

Affected will be some 10 million young people who utilize the special fares, which were first introduced in 1961. The family plan fares have been in use since 1948 as a means of encouraging air travel and it is estimated that 10 million passengers a year — 10 per cent of total traffic — take advantage of them.

How many air travelers accustomed to paying full fares have felt "discriminated" against is not clear. But it is interesting to note that the increased revenues that are expected when full fares are in effect for everyone will not result in an across- the- board reduction in fares for everyone. By CAB admission, the added income will go to improve the airlines' profit picture.

Which may be all right — if there is, indeed, any added income. As community after community has learned time and again, while the projected earnings from an increase in bus or rapid transit fares look good on paper, the invariable result is an actual decline in revenues as people turn to other forms of transportation.

On the basis of present airline fares, it will cost a husband, wife and two children as much as $336 more for round-trip, coast- to - coast tickets in June of 1974.

A lot of those husbands who now take their families along on business trips are going to think twice about doing it in the future.

HOLDING BACK
THE SAHARA

Despite the dourful "weeping and gnashing of teeth" by the doom-sayers and the do- nothings, the revitalizing force of technological progress continues to wage war on the enemies of human life. The latest attack, aimed at bringing long- term relief to millions of people living in the drouth-stricken Sahel region of West Africa, is a product of NASA's Earth Resources Technology Satellite program.

Two American University professors, studying data and photographs obtained from an ERT satellite orbiting 570 miles above the earth, believe they may have discovered a way to halt the perpetual encroachment of West Africa's expanding desert. The Sahara is advancing along a 2,200 mile front at the rate of about 30 miles per year as a result of destructive roaming and grazing practices on the part of the nomad herdsman of that region.

The professors see parallels between West Africa's expanding desert and the early ravages in the western United States. They suggest that the solution to the Sahara problem is the same as was employed in this country-- enclosures and controlled grazing. They would have the nomads put their sheep, goats, cattle and camels into modern ranching enclosures, which would allow the natural regeneration of the region's vegetation.

Scientific developments such as these are indeed heartening at a time when ecological problems are the cause of such great concern. They remind us that scientific progress is a source of hope as long as mankind dares to challenge the unknown. HLH

Inside Labor

By Victor Riesel

Charge Fulbright Hands 'Bloody':

Labor Tells Nixon They'll Paralyze Soviet

Trade Unless USSR- Arab Airlift Ends

BAL HARBOUR, Fla.--- Labor's legions have declared war on the Soviet Union threatening to hit the U. S. S. R. where it hurts, right in the stomach.

Powerful AFL- CIO leaders in the bluntest kind of talk have warned the Russians "detente" is a two- way street. If the military high command in Moscow doesn't slash its massive supply airlift to Arab lands, American labor positively will slash the supply of foodstuffs, especially grain and machinery to the Soviet Union.

This pledge was given to Israel's strong man, Finance Minister Pinhas Sapir, who consulted with national labor chiefs in the Hotel Americana early Monday morning. This warning has been dispatched privately abroad. This message has been sent on to labor's White House contacts, Treasury Secretary George Shultz and to Mel Laird, special domestic affairs assistant to President Nixon.

The warning is not rhetorical. AFL- CIO chiefs mean to paralyze inland transport and piers moving cargoes to Russia, directly or indirectly.

These messages are most significant threats to the Russians. It is estimated here that almost half the American grain for which the Kremlin has contracted is still to be shipped to the U. S. S. R.

Lest there be any Soviet misunderstanding of AFL- CIO intentions, AFL- CIO vice president Paul Hall, president of the Seafarers International Union and head of the 8 million- member Maritime Trades Dept. of this federation, laid it on the line in a resolution adopted at its own convention which traditionally precedes the biennial national CIO constitutional convention.

After charging that Egypt and Syria launched an "unprovoked attack" on Israel, the resolution, read by Hall, second to few labor chiefs here in influence, says:

"The Soviet people must be made to understand that the U. S. cannot be expected to provide them with food and other essentials of life while their government uses the Soviet worker to produce weapons of destruction to be used on the free people of Israel."

The record proves that neither Hall nor his Maritime Dept., which can paralyze whole harbors and railroads, are in the habit of passing idle resolutions. Hall is, in a sense, the big labor federation's field marshal working in intimate tandem with its president, George Meany.

If there is any doubt abroad, or in Washington, that this labor movement merely is on a noisy, speechmaking spree, here are Meany's curt words to the Soviets quietly spoken at another session:

"And at the same time we can get a message across to the Soviets that to us detente is a two- way street and that it also can be played two ways: that we can play the game of detente any way they want to play it. If they want to play it along the lines of cooperation in an effort to achieve world peace, fine. If they want to play it the way they are playing it in the Middle East, we will play it that way."

That means boycott of the Soviets. Complete. Absolute. AFL- CIO Longshoremen's chief Teddy Gleason already has his logistics planned and moving. Monday night he conferred with Meany. Tuesday morning he discussed pier- side action in Great Lakes, Atlantic and Gulf ports against the Russian craft.

"We can stop any cargo moving to any Soviet port," said Gleason. "We can hit them directly by refusing to permit Russian freighters, tankers and passenger ships to be loaded or unloaded, and we can hit Norwegian or any other foreign flag ships attempting to move grain or any other stuff for direct or indirect shipment to the Soviets.

"We're just waiting for developments. We want it fully understood by Shultz and the White House.

"This may mean disrupting world trade. But so be it. They're spilling blood in the Middle East. We're not going to help them murder Israel, the last democratic outpost there."

At the same time here, there have been frontal attacks on what are termed pro- Arab Congressmen. One tornado-type blast was unleashed by the AFL- CIO's second in command, secretary- treasurer Lane Kirkland.

"I think when blood is shed today, that blood is really on the hands of the Fullbrights .men steeped in sanctimony who cry 'peace' when there is no peace...and who demand and urge unilateral...concessions to the bottomless appetites of our sworn enemies," said Kirkland.

"Certainly it would never be possible for a democratic country to expend such vast sums on armaments, to maintain such a vast army, to send such limitless supplies of the most expensive and costly weapons to the Arab nations to use against one little democratic country while they starve their people at home, suppress them at home...

"I can only say, let us hope that these lessons are not brought home to the American people now too late. Certainly I hope not too late for the salvation of that brave little state of Israel, and certainly, not too late for the sake of our own salvation."

What these leaders of almost 14 million members want is summed up in the Maritime resolutions: the immediate provisions to Israel of a continuous flow of supplies to enable them to preserve their freedom. And the immediate warning by the U. S. to Moscow that this nation has no intention of maintaining the "mockery" of alleged detente as long as the Soviet Union continues its overt acts of war against Israel.

These words and much more have been passed on to President Nixon and Secretary Kissinger.

The workers of America have spoken bluntly to the so-called workers' fatherland, now the munition- makers and caterers to Arab armies.

Washington Merry-Go-Round

By Jack Anderson

JACK ANDERSON SAYS:
Literary Loot Returned

WASHINGTON-- In response to our appeal, documents of "incalcuable value" stolen from the Library of Congress have been mailed secretly to us in five anonymous manila packages.

A light- fingered scholar made off with hundreds of pages of irreplaceable diaries, memos, letters and notes from the collection of the late Justice Felix Frankfurter. It was perhaps the most serious robbery in the library's 173-year existence.

The thief stole with meticulous discrimination, carefully selecting items of huge autograph value and others of historical importance.

Among the purloined items were personal letters to Frankfurter from President Lyndon Johnson and Chief Justice Oliver Wendell Holmes, records of conversations with Justice Louis Brandeis and intimate recollections on President Franklin D. Roosevelt, Secretary of State Dean Acheson and West German Chancellor Konrad Adenauer.

The library discovered its grievous loss a year ago and quietly alerted the FBI. A secret search has been going on ever since for the literary loot.

APPEAL TO THIEF

We learned about the theft in September and published an appeal to the master- thief's sense of history. The intelligence and taste with which he stole convinced us he could be persuaded to share at least copies of the Frankfurter documents with history. If he would get the documents to us, we promised to return them to the library, protect his identity and request Attorney General Elliot Richardson to call off the FBI's nationwide manhunt for him.

A few days ago, five brown manila envelopes arrived in the mail. Each contained a huge batch of copies of the remarkable papers. Only the valuable Frankfurter diaries and a few other papers still have not turned up.

For the sake of history, the scholar- thief has taken a considerable risk to copy and return the documents. We, therefore, are keeping our bargain. We have destroyed the manila envelopes without examining them for clues to the sender's identity and we are appealing to Richardson to end his manhunt. Now we urge the thief to complete the restoration and send us the missing diaries.

A small sampling from the stolen papers gives a hint of their value to historians.

ADVICE TO CHURCHILL

-- Eleven months before Pearl Harbor, Frankfurter arranged for then Australian Ambassador Richard Casey to send a "Personal Secret" cable to London for Winston Churchill's eyes only. Although it was a serious breach for a Supreme Court Justice to meddle in foreign affairs, Frankfurter urged Churchill to butter up President Roosevelt as a means of bringing the U. S. over to the British side in World War II.

Churchill immediately took Frankfurter's advice and tailored his famous January 9, 1941 speech to FDR's vanity.

-- In intimate letters over the years, Lyndon Johnson and Felix Frankfurter counseled one another on how to take care of their cardiac illnesses. Wrote Johnson to the ailing Frankfurter: "I have been sitting down here on my ranch watching the Pedernales... and cleaning my gun for the quail and deer hunting season...The important think is to keep yourself in shape...so you can get back to work."

-- Brandeis confided in his talks with the young Frankfurter more than 50 years ago that he was worried about "restrictions of freedom of speech." Brandeis also warned with great foresight against an energy crisis.

BACKBITING

But he also stooped to gossip and backbiting. He complained, for example, that one of his colleagues "bordered on being crazy" and needed "an electric treatment."

-- Frankfurter, while his letters soar with the grandeur of poetry and legal philosophy, was also an unrepentant gossip.

Privately, he called the New York Times' Arthur Krock a "pretentious ass," lobbied to keep his former law clerk, Phil Elman, on the Federal Trade Commission and suggested that his fellow Justices leave the "garish luxuries" of the Supreme Court building and do their law work at home.

THE FORD TAPES: The Senate Rules Committee has asked the FBI for a full field report on vice presidential nominee Gerald Ford. It will be interesting to see whether the FBI tells the senators about the incident in 1963, when the FBI inadvertenly eavesdropped on a telephone call that AVCO official Earl "Red" Blaik made to Ford.

Blaik was seeking Ford's intervention to block an investigation of AVCO's handling of an Army contract at its Crosley plant.

The FBI had planted a bug in the hotel suite of lobbyist Fred Black. The hidden device recorded Blaik's end of the conversation with Ford. We have had access to the FBI's classified internal report which referred to the listening device as "informant WF 1441- C."

"Say, Jerry," begain Blaik, "I want to cut you in on this one thing. Out at Crosley's yesterday, they had an FBI man."

Responding to a remark from Ford, Blaik said someone "must have made some complaint to the Department of Justice. Wouldn't you think so?...That's what he is trying to do, trying to show that there is some stuff in here other than ordinary."

Ford acknowledged that he had received a number of calls from Blaik on his troubles with the Army contract. Ford explained he and Blaik had been close friends since their coaching days more than 35 years ago. Blaik coached at Dartmouth while Ford was an assistant coach at Yale.

NEW YORK (AP) — Remarks that college students get tired of hearing:

"When I was your age, I was glad to get $5 a month in spending money."

"Why do you want to live in a coeducational dormitory? I'd rather know you were doing your learning in a classroom."

"I don't object to your having a car while you're in college, Joe. All I insist on is that you earn the money to buy it — if you feel you need one that bad."

"I have a letter from the dean saying you have been put on probation. Is that an honor?"

"Mother and I send our congratulations on your being chosen a cheerleader, Jane. If anyone asks me what my daughter is getting out of college, I can tell them you've already been taught how to wave a stick and yell."

"Young man, I'll be glad to admit you to my lecture course on 18th-century Dolls, but only if you understand that the word dolls isn't being used in the slang sense."

"If you insist on marrying the boy while you're still in college, Jane, I can't stop you. But if you do, send your dental bills to his father, not me."

"The college infirmary has sent me a statement, Joe, listing $8 you owe for a threemonth supply of pills. What are the pills for, son — and who is taking them? I'm just curious."

"You may have paid me $75 for the books at the start of the school year, but they were new then. They are used now. All I can give you for the lot is $8. Take it or leave it."

"You can forget your pipedreams about bumming to Africa this summer, Joe. A friend of mine in the advertising field says he can give you a job this summer passing out handbills. It only pays $2 an hour, but it is outdoor work and should put you in fine shape for the cookie-pushing season when you return to college next fall."

CHARLESTON — A felony charge of selling a quantity of controlled substance (marijuana) to a minor against Jesse Teague of Bertrand was continued to Oct. 25 in Magistrate Court Thursday to allow Teague time to employ an attorney.

Teague is accused of selling Thomas Walls of Bertrand, a minor, 2.32 grams of marijuana for $15 on Sept. 7. He was arrested Thursday morning at his home by Deputy Sheriff Mike Baughman and bond was set at $5,000.

A preliminary hearing for Anthony Peterson, Carl Edward Cassell and Gary Donald Easton of Charleston, charged with burglary and stealing, was set for Nov. 15. The charges stem from the Sept. 26 break- in at Cecil's Tobacco Store in Charleston. Peterson remains in custody under $2,500 bond. Cassell and Easton were released on their own recognizance.

An attorney was appointed to represent Gilberto Pedroza of East Prairie, charged with felonious assault on Betty Jones Oct. 12 outside Turnbo's Tavern in East Prairie. Bond was set at $1,000 and the case was continued to Oct. 25.

An attorney was appointed to represent Clarence Love of Charleston on a charge of carrying a concealed weapon and the case was continued to Oct. 25. A charge of possession of marijuana under 35 grams against Love was also continued to Oct. 25.

Thomas E. Simmons of East Prairie was sentenced to 30 days in jail for driving while intoxicated and 30 days for driving while his license is revoked. Ernest Easely of East Prairie was sentenced to 30 days in jail on a driving while intoxicated charge and 15 days for having no operator's license. Easley's sentences are to run concurrently.

Pat Carroll and Edgar Ledbetter of East Prairie pleaded not guilty to charges of disturbing the peace and trial date was set for Nov. 1. The two are free on $100 bond, reduced from $1,000.

Clara Sutherland and May Wilson pleaded not guilty to charges of harassment by telephone and their cases were continued to Oct. 25 for setting.

Defense counsel's request to suppress evidence in a case of possession of marijuana against David Naile of Bertrand was overruled by Judge T. J. Brown, Jr., and the case is to be called Oct. 25.

Misdemeanor cases and fines included:

Meekee Eleanor Graham of Charleston, driving with expired license plates, $21; Olan David Porter Jr. of New Madrid, speeding, $26; Lucy Laverne Cary, common assault, $27; Jerry Wayne Rosson of Charleston, speeding, $28; Fred Coleman of Charleston, careless and imprudent driving, $31; Harrison Brack of East Prairie, speeding, $29.

William Donald Choate of Sikeston, improper registration by failure to transfer, $21; Paul Melvin Page of Cairo, Ill., speeding, $26; Ollie Eugene Grisso of Charleston, improper registration, $21; Walter Vernon Britt of Sikeston, improper registration and no Missouri operator's license, $36; and Henry Michael Renaud of Charleston, written plea of guilty to speeding, $28.

A warrant was issued for Anita Faye Willis of East Prairie who failed to appear on a charge of driving without an operator's license.

Charges of burglary and stealing against Ronnie Lane and Billy Ray Nolen were dismissed by the state. Also dismissed was a charge of leaving the scene of an accident against Pleas Starks of Charleston and a charge of exhibiting and flourishing a dangerous and deadly weapon against Richard Counts.

In civil action, Earl Nolen, doing business as Nolen's General Store of Anniston, received default judgment in the amount of $906.95 and costs in an account suit brought against Billy Ray and Evelyn Hatton.

John F. Rolwing was awarded judgment of $325.35, plus costs, in a promissory note suit and an account suit brought against George and Guy Eula Hines.

ASsociated Financial Services Co. received judgment of $662.36 and costs in a promissory note suit brought against James and Annie Craig.

Ralph and Lee Pattengill, doing business as Pattengill Bros., was given judgment of $602.68 and costs in a promissory note suit against Glenn and Shirley Perry.

Other cases continued to Oct. 25 were Edgar Thomas Revelle of East Prairie, illegal muffler; Jerry Lee Johnson of East Prairie, improper registration; Edgar Calvin Marshall III of Charleston; operator's license not on person and expired trailer registration; and Thomas Walls of Bertrand, disturbing the peace. A charge of possession of marijuana against Walls was continued to Nov. 22.

A charge of possession of intoxicating liquor by a minor against Michael Stallings of Charleston was continued to Nov. 1. The same charge against Steven Leo Wright of Charleston was also continued to Nov. 1. A charge of careless and imprudent driving against Terry Edward Redferring of East Prairie was continued to Nov. 15.

Other cases and fines this week were:

Roy Leon Williams, speeding, $26; Rodger Alden Lambert, not motorcycle qualified on operator's license, $21; Robert Lee Farquhar, speeding, $34; Robert Harrison Howlett, careless and imprudent driving and Missouri resident with out- of- state operator's license, $41.

Annebell Isom, no operator's license, $26; Clarence Fred Davis, speeding, $46; Levi Kelly, failure to transfer license plates, $21; and Roy Brown, stealing, dismissed at $19.25 costs.

Tour planned for analysts

BLYTHEVILLE, Ark.— Thirty-four security analysts from 16 metropolitan areas of the United States will arrive at Blytheville Monday on a tour arranged by Middle South Utilities, said Frank G. Smith, president of Arkansas- Missouri Power Co.

"The purpose of their visit is to give us the opportunity of demonstrating to them the economic potential of this area," Smith said.

He said the analysts are coming from Boston, Chicago, Dallas, Detroit, Los Angeles, Little Rock, New Orleans, New York, San Francisco, Salt Lake City, Austin, Texas, Hartford, Conn., Jackson, Miss., Newport Beach, Calif., St. Paul, Minn., and Santa Fe, N.M.

The group will arrive at Blytheville Air Force Base about 11:30 a.m. Monday.

Evans arrested

Police today said William Franklin Evans of Morehouse was arrested for careless and imprudent driving.

Ann Landers

Selfish husband makes marriage an empty shell

Dear Ann Landers: I have a practical suggestion for the young lady who invariably finds herself seated next to a bore on a plane, train or bus. She says she has a "friendly" face and people just start conversations with her. She would love to look out the window, or daydream, or enjoy the pleasure of silence, but somehow she is denied these luxuries because some creep starts talking to her and she doesn't know how to turn him off.

A foreign language newspaper will provide her with the perfect escape. She should carry one in her purse at all times and practice saying, "No speak English." I have tried it and it works. The bore almost always moves away and finds another victim.--- Helpful Helga

Dear Helga: That gimmick might work for some, but it is not entirely foolproof. I once carried a Spanish magazine on a plane, hoping to bone up for a visit to Puerto Rico. A gentleman spotted it and I was trapped. He talked my ear off--- in Spanish, yet--- all the way to San Juan!

Dear Ann Landers: Twenty years ago I married an only child. To his credit, he has provided a lovely home for his daughters and me. He doesn't drink or run around. He is decent and faithful. His only vice is that he never has time for us.

Since the beginning of our marriage my husband has always been involved in activities that pleased him---softball, fishing, hunting, We were never included. When the children were small I was stuck at home.

I remember the time I pleaded with him, on a hot summer night, to take us for a ride and maybe buy us ice cream cones. He refused. I cried. My mother- in- law was there. She gave me a lecture on how men needed to enjoy their hobbies and sports, with no criticism from their wives. Fifteen years ago I gave up begging for his time.

Last December my father-in- law died of a heart attack. My mother- in- law cries every day because her son doesn't have time for her. "Now that I am alone," she whines, "I need his love but he doesn't know if I am dead or alive."

I don't have the heart to remind my mother- in- law of her words of advice when I cried because her son didn't have time for me or his daughters. She raised him to be selfish and now she is reaping the bitter harvest. As for me, the pain is gone. I learned to be independent and the girls don't miss his company one bit.--- Last Laugh But Not Laughing

Dear L. L.: This is no laughing matter. I feel sorry for your mother- in- law but even sorrier for her selfish son. His marriage sounds like an empty shell and I'll bet his daughters won't give him standing room at a skunk rassle when he wants THEIR company in later years.

Dear Ann Landers: I know you've said repeatedly that children should be told they are adopted. But my problem is different.

I was an unwed mother at 16. I filed a paternity suit against the father. It is on record at City Hall. The rat skipped town and I haven't seen him since.

My daughter was a year old when I married a wonderful guy. She is eight now and believes my husband is her real father. Is it necessary that we tell her the truth? Several people in town know the story. What would it do to her if she should learn it elsewhere? Hurry your answer. We are on--- Pins And Needles

Dear P & N: Tell the child the truth. It will be far less damaging now than if she hears it later from an outsider. Had you written to me three years ago I would have suggested it THEN.

Women organize Community Club

ESSEX— Several young women have organized the Essex Community Club, and a host of projects for community betterment are being planned by the club.

Mrs. Terry Kinder and Mrs. Robert McGhee are serving as co- chairmen of the organization and Mrs. Pat Crane is treasurer.

One of the most important projects ahead is Christmas street lighting, and this week a $100 donation was made by the City Council to the club and $100 was contributed by the Bank of Bloomfield Essex Facility.

The club has a traveling bake sale, and once a month various types of baked goods are loaded into a station wagon and the "traveling bake sale" goes throughout the city and nearby areas, enabling older residents and those who could not come downtown to purchase home baked goods right at their front door.

Plans were also announced this week for a Halloween parade to be held in downtown Essex Oct. 31. First, second and third prizes will be awarded in two divisions, kindergarten through third grade and fourth through sixth grades.

Planned in the next three months will be an open house and party on Nov. 3 and on Dec. 1 the club will hold an old-fashioned, country market, bake sale and bazaar with many handmade items as well as jellies and various other pastries and foods.

Another special project has been set for Dec. 16 when the club will host its first holiday home tour in Essex. Tentatively, four homes are scheduled for this event to be held in the afternoon.

The members also would like to work toward securing playground equipment for the city park.

POLLY'S POINTERS

Making Light Work Of Candle Drippings

By POLLY CRAMER

DEAR POLLY — I am answering Mrs. J. R. T. who cannot remove candle wax from her nylon carpet. The red rug around the altar of our small church had hundreds of candle drippings which nothing would remove. A visiting missionary told me what to do and it worked beautifully. Flatten out a large heavy brown grocery bag, put it over the wax spots and then run a warm iron over the bag, which will absorb the wax. If necessary use another clean bag and repeat. Do be careful not to lay the hot iron on the rug. — ANNE

DEAR GIRLS — Mrs. R. P. suggested the same method but she uses several layers of paper toweling and George, a former dry cleaner, recommends blotters used the same way. Take your pick. — POLLY

Polly's Problem

DEAR POLLY — I have 20 tubes of every color of paint that is used to paint fabrics and pictures. These tubes were stored in an airtight container for six months and now I find the contents of the tubes will not feed out of the nylon tips, even though the tubes still feel soft. I hate to discard 20 of these. I do hope someone can tell me how to start the paint flowing again. — MRS. G. B.

DEAR POLLY — My Pointer is for those who may be looking for an easy way to housetrain a dog. Use newspapers to cover the floor in the room where the dog will stay. Every day remove two or three pieces of the paper and, after a period of time, the pieces will all be gone and the dog should be trained rather well. This worked so nicely for our dog and should for yours. — M. T.

Wyatt man, 3 others indicted by grand jury

WYATT — A federal grand jury in Memphis, Tenn. has indicted Homer R. Reichert of Wyatt, his son- in- law and daughter, John and Vickie Elrod, and Vincent Moran Doss of Cairo, Ill. on three counts, including obstruction of justice, attempted bribery and conspiracy.

Thomas Turley, U. S. Attorney for the Western District of Tennessee, said the violations allegedly took place from June 1 to Sept. 12 of this year.

Turley said Doss is free on $100,000 bond while appealing his conviction last week in a conspiracy case involving drugs and counterfeit money. A second case against Doss is still pending in U. S. District Court at Memphis.

In the second case, Turley said, Doss is charged with conspiracy involving transportation of stolen property across state lines. The U. S. Attorney alleged that women's clothing stolen in a Memphis burglary some months ago was found a day or so after the robbery in a warehouse at Cairo belonging to Doss.

A government witness in this case, Claryce Guess, address not given, was allegedly approached by the four persons listed in Thursday's indictment, with a view to keeping her from testifying against Doss.

According to the indictment, Mrs. Guess was at first threatened in an effort to persuade her not to testify, and was later offered money if she would testify falsely on a critical issue at the trial.

Specifically, the indictment as read by Turley, says that on June 1 Mr. and Mrs. Elrod occupied an apartment in the same place Mrs. Guess resides. On June 15 at Memphis, the Elrods and Mrs. Janet Jackson of Memphis, who is listed on Count III of the indictment as a co- conspirator but not a defendant, allegedly had a conversation with Mrs. Guess in which the latter was threatened with personal injury if she testified against Doss.

Then on Sept. 7 at Memphis, John Elrod allegedly told Mrs. Guess she could "mitigate the chance of personal injury to herself if she would testify falsely."

The indictment goes on to say that from Sept. 8 to 12 John and Vickie Elrod, Homer Reichert and LaVelle Doss, who is also named as a co-conspirator but not defendant, wife of Vincent Doss, intimidated and offered to bribe Mrs. Guess by telephone and personal conversations on several occasions.

Sikeston Lions to sponsor Wild West Show

Col. Tim McCoy's Wild West Stage Show will be presented at 2:30 p.m. Sunday at the Sikeston Field House.

The show, sponsored by the Sikeston Lions Club and featuring Col. Tim McCoy, will include sharpshooters, knife throwers, rope spinning demonstrations and Indian novelty acts. An added attraction will be an appearance by the Masked Rider.

McCoy, is one of the five big old time western stars, including Hoot Gibson, Ken Maynard, Buck Jones and Tom Mix. McCoy and Maynard are the only ones still living.

McCoy went to Wyoming as a youth, worked on cattle ranches and learned Indian sign talk. He is the last of the Army's three great sign-talkers. After his World War I service, he became an aide to Gen. Hugh L. Scott, Indian fighter of the late 1880s and 1890s and later army chief of staff.

McCoy, at the age of 73, lives in Nogales, Ariz. with his wife and two sons, 17 and 15.

Seaver gets call

OAKLAND (AP) — The New York Mets brought a 3-2 World Series lead back to Oakland today, hoping to finish the sinking A's with the right-hand punch of ace Tom Seaver.

Although Manager Yogi Berra wouldn't say directly, the New York pilot indicated Thursday night that Seaver would start in Saturday's sixth game in Oakland against A's ace Jim "Catfish" Hunter.

"Seaver's arm is fine," said Berra after the Mets won the fifth game 2-0 in New York. "Let's just say that it's a good chance that it might be Seaver."

The hard-throwing ace is the only right-hander among the Mets' starters, but it really doesn't matter which side they've been throwing from in this best-of-seven-game Series. They've shackled the A's power.

Lefthanders especially have been awfully tough on the predominantly righthand Oakland batting order—and Thursday night's performance was a good example.

Southpaw Jerry Koosman started and shut out the A's for 6 1-3 innings. Left-handed Tug McGraw finished up with a stunning relief performance.

"We've got the best pitching in baseball," said Berra after the victory before a packed house of 54,817 at cold, windswept Shea Stadium. "That's what got us here in the first place."

It was apparent from the start that pitching would dominate Thursday night's game. Koosman and Oakland's Vida Blue were locked in a tense early struggle as the Mets took a 1-0 lead in the second inning on a double by flu-stricken Cleon Jones and a run-scoring single by John Milner.

The Mets had Blue on the ropes in the fourth when Rusty Staub and Jones singled to start the inning, but failed to deliver a knockout blow. Blue pitched out of the jam. He failed, however to survive the sixth, when the Mets scored their second run on a single by Jerry Grote and triple by Don Hahn.

"It was the most important hit of my life," said Hahn, who isn't normally known for gamewinning hits. "It gave Jerry more of a cushion to work with."

Blue exploded a fastball inside and Hahn hit it into the left-center field alley.

"I was kind of tight in the first four games," said the softspoken center fiedler. "But Buddy (Harrelson) told me I'd been too rigid standing at the plate. So I went up there super relaxed tonight.

"I felt I could hit anybody. I had super confidence."

That insurance run looked big in the late going when Koosman got into trouble. In the seventh inning, he walked Gene Tenace and gave up a one-out double to Ray Fosse that put men on second and third.

It was time for McGraw.

"No one wants to leave a ballgame," said Koosman, "and I was feeling pretty strong, too. But you can't knock Yogi's move. Tug has pitched great baseball for us the last two months."

McGraw promptly walked pinch-hitter Deron Johnson to load the bases, setting up a situation in which McGraw has flourished most of the season.

"I can't pitch well with nobody on base," said McGraw. "I have much better concentration with the bases loaded."

The crowd roared as New York's favorite relief pitcher got pinch-hitter Angel Mangual on a pop fly to shortstop Harrelson. Then the crowd went absolutely berserk as McGraw got the dangerous Bert Campaneris on strikes.

"The strikeout pitch was just above the knees on the outside part of the plate," said McGraw. "I tried to make it look like a screwball. It went just where I wanted it, and he took it." McGraw walked three batters in the seventh and eighth innings and managed to struggle through despite the control problem.

"I kicked myself in the backside and I was all right from then on," McGraw said.

McGraw's darting fastball set the A's down 1-2-3 in the ninth. He finished on a high note, striking out the last two batters.

"The Mets' pitching is the best we've looked at this year," said Manager Dick Williams of Oakland. "I thought Blue pitched a hell of a game. Koosman and McGraw just pitched better."

A look at the figures confirmed Williams' assessment. The A's were only able to collect three hits off Koosman and none off McGraw Thursday night. The power-hitting A's haven't had a home run in this Series and scored only four runs in the three games at Shea.

"Old baseball men say good pitching stops good hitting, and I guess I'll have to go along with that," said Blue, who has never won a game in post-season play.

"Good pitching and defense and some very timely hitting," said Williams, summarizing the Mets' magic.

SHS underdogs

Southeast Missouri's high school football season moves into its sixth week of action Friday night, with key league encounters headlining the action.

For the Daily Standard prognostication panel, the guessing gets harder as the teams head into the home stretch with their sights set on league titles.

Old reliable, Danny Summerfield, maintained his lead in the weekly guessing game with an 89.5 percent average. Danny was only 8-10 last week, but he has only missed four all season.

A number of the usual guessers failed to reply this week and left us with Mike, Jerry and Bobby Gentry, Scott Marlin, Tony Ford, Stuart McGhee, Dianne Ezzell, Summerfield and yours truly.

Here's the way the guesses went....

Dexter vs. Sikeston--- A fierce rivalry has built up in this confrontation over the years and this game should live up to that tradition. It's homecoming at DHS and the Bulldogs have taken pride in the past in spoiling that celebration. The Bearcats are solid 6- 2 favorites, I believe that the Dogs will surprise the panel with a 21- 13 victory.

Charleston vs. Kennett--- The Indians found them a rugged running back last week in their losing effort to Sikeston...The Bluejays are unanimous choices, but the majority feels that they'll get scored upon in this battle. Charleston 20- 9.

Jackson vs. Chaffee--- Coach Paul Webber's gridders will be able to pick their own score in this battle. A lot of reserves will see some action also. The Indians should have little trouble. Jackson 35, Chaffee 0.

Sports Corner

By Ron Jaynes

Cape Central vs. Poplar Bluff--- The Bengals are unanimous choices to tame the Mules--- Well almost unanimous... The panel members went all the way with the Bengals, but I've got the upset on my mind....PBHS 28, CCHS 21.

South Pemiscot vs. Gideon--- Now this should be a great contest....Both teams are well matched....This battled should decide who'll finish at the bottom of the Bootheel Division standings...The panel says the SPHS Dogs are 6- 2 picks...But I'll go with GHS 13-12.

Scott City vs. Doniphan--- The Bootheel Division title is on the line in this battle...Coach Bill Wilthong's Rams should romp to their 16th straight victory. I- SC 35, Doniphan 6.

Portageville vs. Cairo, Ill.--- This should be an interesting confrontation... The Bulldogs are 6- 2 favorites...and I'll agree...14-7.

Hayti vs. Malden--- It's unanimous!!! The guessing panel of The Daily Standard has went 8- 0 in favor of the Indians...But I've selected another upset...Malden will win its first. Malden 8, Hayti 7.

East Prairie vs. Caruthersville--- This Southern Division battle should prove one of the more interesting of the night...I've went against the panel's 5- 3 pick of the Eagles to go with the Tigers and a 21- 15 triumph.

My final prediction of the day is that the Mets will be the new World Champions of baseball...Seaver will rise to the occassion Saturday and defeat the A's in Oakland.

Here's the panel's figures:

PROGNOSTICATION

Predictor	Week	Season
Eddie Smart	14- 20	70%
David Ziegenhorn	7- 10	70%
Bill Harrison	7- 10	70%
Scott Marlin	10- 11	27- 38 71%

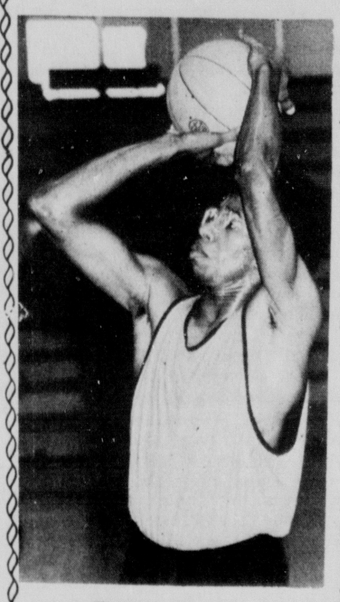
Jerry Gentry	9- 11	28- 38 73.7%
Mike Gentry	10- 11	29- 38 76.3%
Tony Ford	18- 11	28- 36 77.7%
John Greer	10- 11	30- 38 78.9%
Ron Jaynes	10- 11	30- 38 78.9%
Dianne Ezzell	8- 10	31- 37 83.7%
Stuart McGhee	8- 9	31- 36 86.1%
Danny Summerfield	8- 10	34; 38 89.5%

Sims big plus



Dennis Sims

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. — Dennis Sims is only 6-4, but don't let that fool you. Last year as a freshman on the Three Rivers Community College basketball team he continually surprised much taller opponents with his jumping ability.

It's not uncommon to see the Essex product's hands go high above the rim in quest of a high bounding shot. He particularly excells in going up in a crowd of players.

It should be no surprise that Sims was the Raiders' leading rebounder last season. He pulled down 379 carooms. Ron Johnson's (now graduated) 293 rebounds was the nearest to him. In one game last year Sims hauled down 26 rebounds, one short of the school mark.

Only three players saw action in all Three Rivers' 39 games in 1972-73 and Sims was one of them. The other two were sophomores Johnson and Lennies McFerren.

Sims returns with a 9.1 scoring average. If he scores as many points (355 as he did last year, Sims would move into the top 10 list of the Raiders' all- time leading scorers.

The bubbling Sims, "is very definitely one of our team leaders," said Raider Coach Gene Bess. "He's always encouraging the other players to do better. His attitude is great and because he had more experience than anyone on the team the other players look to him for an example."

Mention Sims' rebounding and Coach Bess breaks into smiles. "He was our leading rebounder last year and we're expecting him to be an even better rebounder this season."

Because of Sims and 6-6 Mike Edwards of Columbus, Ga., and 6-6 Dave Beckering of St. Charles, Coach Bess feels he should be strong up front.

Fifth in the National Junior College Basketball Tournament last season and seeking their fifth straight conference crown, The Raiders open their season at home Nov. 17 hosting Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge, Arkansas.

Guard candidate

POPLAR BLUFF, Mo. — Faced with rebuilding a backcourt depleted by graduation, Three Rivers Community College Basketball Coach Gene Bess recruited Charleston star Alvin Pierce.

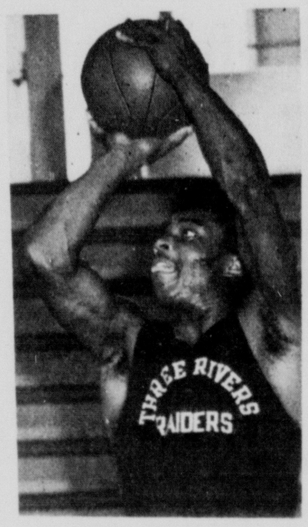
An honorable mention all-state guard, Pierce maintained a 26- point game average as Bluejay senior.

Coach Bess feels he has a winner in the 6-foot Pierce.

"He has really worked hard this fall," said the coach. "We consider him one of our outstanding prospects at the guard position."

Though Pierce's scoring made him Coach Lucian Black's top Charleston player, it is the ex- Bluejay's defensive skills that most impress Coach Bess.

"He is a very strong defensive player," said the head coach. "In fact, he's probably our strongest defensive guard."



Alvin Pierce

"Alvin is a fairly complete player," enthused Coach Bess. "He just needs time to learn our system."

Mike McGuire is the only hold- over guard from last year's fifth place National Junior College Basketball Tournament team. With three other sophomore guards in front of him, McGuire saw only limited action.

Besides McGuire, Pierce will be competing with three other freshmen ball handlers when the Raiders open their season Nov. 17 at home against Southern Baptist of Walnut Ridge Arkansas. The Raiders will be seeking a fifth straight conference title.

Ticket prices hiked

ST. LOUIS (AP) — The St. Louis Baseball Cardinals have blamed increasing operating costs as the primary reason for a 50-cent hike in the price of box and reserved seats for next season.

A club spokesman said Thursday that box seats will cost $4.50 and reserved seats $3.50 for the 1974 season. No price change was announced for the 8,000 general admission and 4,000 bleacher seats in Busch Stadium.

A reduced season ticket rate will be available for the first time next year, the team said, with box seats selling for $4 and reserved seats going for $3.

Cards

PITTSBURGH (AP) — The Pittsburgh Pirates, seeking to remedy their pitching ills, have acquired Ken Brett from the Philadelphia Phillies for Dave Cash, a dependable but expendable second baseman.

Brett, 24, was 13-8 last season and had 10 complete games, three more than Pirates' leader Nelson Briles.

"I faced Brett a couple of times. He had a good, live arm and he's going to be an addition to the Pirate ballclub," Cash said after the deal was announced Thursday in New York.

Two other deals were reported to be in the works Thursday—although none of the clubs would confirm the trades.

In an interleague swap, the American League's Boston Red Sox were reportedly sending controversial outfielder Reggie Smith and relief pitcher Ken Tatum to the St. Louis Cardinals of the National League, in exchange for starting pitcher Rick Wise and outfielder Bernie Carbo.

The reported deal wasn't confirmed by the teams because major league rules prohibit inter-league trading until five days after the World Series, which won't end until the weekend.

In an American League deal, the California Angels were said to be trading pitcher Clyde Wright to Milwaukee for Brewers' catcher Ellie Rodriguez as part of a multi-player deal that might include Milwaukee hurler Skip Lockwood.

Cash, 25, was unhappy sharing Pittsburgh's second base job with Rennie Stennett last season. He batted .271 in 116 games and was used occasionally at third.

He welcomed the swap as a chance to play regularly for the Phillies, who used five different players at second.

"I think they traded for what they wanted," Cash observed. "They felt they needed a second baseman who could play every day."

DURHAM, N.C. (AP) — Neill Mc Geachy, an assistant coach at Duke University last season, Thursday was named head basketball coach. He replaces Bucky Waters, who resigned last month.

BOCA RATON, Fla. — Fourth-seeded Nancy Richey Gunter of San Angelo, Tex., routed Carrie Meyers of Fort Lauderdale, Fla., 6-0, 6-2, in the $110,000 women's tennis tournament.

GOLF

NAPA, Calif. — Grier Jones fired a seven-under-par 65 and assumed the first-round lead in the $150,000 Kaiser International Open Golf Tournament.

Sports

BASKETBALL

DURHAM, N.C. — Neill R. McGeachy was promoted from assistant coach to head basketball coach at Duke University, replacing Bucky Waters who resigned last month.

FOOTBALL

PHILADELPHIA — The Philadelphia Eagles of the National Football League obtained wide receiver Wes Chesson from the Atlanta Falcons in exchange for an undisclosed 1974 draft choice.

TENNIS

NEW DELHI, India — Raul Ramirez of Mexico topped Australian Fred Stolle 8-6, 6-1 and advanced to the semifinals of the Indian Grand Prix international tennis tournament.

MANILA — Top-seeded John Newcombe of Australia defeated Czechoslovakia's Milan Holocek 6-3, 5-7, 6-4 and moved into the semifinals of the $25,000 Manila Open tennis tournament.

MADRID — Britain's Christopher Mottram eliminated topseeded Rod Laver of Australia 3-6, 7-5, 6-2 in the quarter-finals of the International Melia tennis tournament.

Church in Malden opens service unit

MALDEN— A Christian Service Center opened in Malden Tuesday morning under the sponsorship of the Malden Church of Christ and will be conducted under the auspices of the elders of the congregation.

The center is located on West Main Street, across from Laden Furniture Co. and will be open from 9 to 11 a.m. and 1 to 3 p.m. Monday through Saturday.

The center has been established to give Christian service and assistance to all who have material, as well as spiritual needs.

The center will be operated totally by volunteer help, and contributions of goods and supplies will be accepted from other church congregations or individual residents in the community.

New and used clothing, furniture, household items and food will be received for despensing to those in need. The volunteer workers will sort the clothing, mend and clean as necessary, and then distribute the items to qualified persons.

Nothing will be bought and nothing will be sold. All contributors will receive an itemized receipt for tax purposes.

Several business firms, including Ever Ready Electric, SeMo Signs, Powell Supply and Malden Furniture Co., as well as numerous individuals have already contributed to the center to assure the success of the opening.

Transportation will be available to persons who would like to make a contribution. Persons may telephone 276- 5150, during business hours and a volunteer worker will provide transportation to and from the center.

Baptist men's group to meet

BENTON— The Charleston Baptist Association Brotherhood will meet Tuesday at 7:30 p.m. at the multipurpose room of the Baptist Building at the Unity Camp Brounds east of Benton.

Don Painton, brotherhood director, has announced that the speaker will be the Rev. Don Bilbary, a foreign missionary on furlough from Guyana, South America. Men and Royal Ambassador boys will attend.

Refreshments will be served at the close of the meeting.

Teen Challenge group set for Advance visit

ADVANCE — The Rev. Phil Breithaupt and The New Creations, a musical group from the Mid-America Teen Challenge Center at Cape Girardeau, will perform at the Advance United Methodist Church at 9:45 and 10:45 a.m. Oct. 28.

A basket dinner will follow the morning services, and a youth rap session will be held afterwards.

Goal set for Risco church

RISCO — First Baptist Church will participate in "Miracle Sunday" Oct. 28, a statewide campaign for which the Risco church has a goal of 155 in Sunday School.

The church has an all-time attendance record of 132.

Payne's Cottage

When he composed the song, "Home Sweet Home," the home that Payne wrote of was a little cottage in East Hampton, Long Island. The song was first heard in London in his play, "Clari," in 1823.

Revival to end Sunday at Eastside

Revival services in progress at Eastside Church of the Nazarene, Ralph Avenue at Betty Street, will continue nightly through Sunday with the Rev. Buford Battin of Lubbock, Tex., as evangelist.

Services begin at 7:30 p.m. tonight and Saturday and at 10:35 a.m. and 7 p.m. Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Battin is a full - time evangelist who has had wide experience as a minister, having served as a pastor in San Antonio and Dallas, Tex., Roswell and Clovis, N. M., and Olympia, Wash., besides several years of conducting revivals as an evangelist.

He is a graduate of Eastern New Mexico University.

Portageville church adds staff member

PORTAGEVILLE— First Baptist Church of Portageville recently added Neal R. Helmbacher to its staff as minister of music and education.

Helmbacher has an office in the church, and will be in charge of the music and educational programs of the church. He also will be involved in the outreach ministry of First Baptist Church, which includes the visitation program and bus ministry, and will work with the youth director and youth committee in the youth program.

Helmbacher is 22 years old, and he and his wife Carol have a seven- month- old son named Jason.

While a student at Southwest Baptist College in Bolivar, Helmbacher served as minister of music on a part-time basis for First Baptist Church of Lockwood.

Mrs. Helmbacher is the daughter of a Southern Baptist minister.

The Helmbachers moved to Portageville Sept. 14.

Lucy elected to state board

Richard Lucy, a member of Tanner Street Church of God in Sikeston, was elected to the executive committee of the Missouri Men of the Church of God last Saturday in St. Louis.

The organization is composed of layman whose main purpose is to assist their pastors in spreading the gospel.

Putting the blame on Billy Graham

By David Poling

Watergate has a way of touching every aspect of American life. Church, college and community affairs that turn sour or reveal bad decisions are called "mini Watergates." Individuals and groups tagged with failure are labeled "plumbers." Even phrases and sentences such as "one thing perfectly clear" and "at that point in time" must be linked with double meanings or not used at all.

The religious community has churned the Watergate episode to a holy froth. Liberals are blaming White House establishment religious leaders, such as Billy Graham, for the morality that made Watergate possible. Graham, writing in the New York Times, argued that the spiritual and moral collapse of the whole country — especially the permissiveness of the Sixties — was the source of the political plotting.

James A. Michener, responding to Graham's statement in the same newspaper, exploded with: "He has it backwards. The men who engineered Watergate were the least permissive in America. They sat Sunday mornings in the White House and listened to Billy Graham himself preach consoling approval of the status quo. He was one of the few men in America who could have influenced the course of Watergate, and he did nothing about it."

The difficulty here is our short memory and limited information concerning the workings of the White House. In fact, the Sunday services were the dream of the Secret Service who wanted the President out of sanctuary target areas. This suited Mr. Nixon for his religious persuasions were vague and most personal. Most of the time he is at San Clemente or Florida — White House services, when held, were for senior members of the administration and family. Graham, Dr. Peale and others were on the invitational list of preachers.

The conservative religious theme has been the close one to our most recent presidents. And critics have been eager to lay the blame on Billy Graham for his role as adviser and companion to Johnson and Nixon (although he was closest to Eisenhower). Yet many who sit in judgment on the evangelist and his role do not have the back-stage perspective and their memories are failing on even public accounts.

Consider the war in Vietnam. Graham did give tacit approval to the conflict by supporting the Johnson-Nixon participation — and certainly, the bombing. Yet it was Billy Graham who exerted every influence to place Sen. Mark Hatfield for vice-president on the Nixon slate in 1968 — the leading Republican critic of Asian policy!

Some churchmen have raged against Graham for his silence during the period of savage bombing when the peace negotiations seemed in a state of collapse late last year. Yet insiders know (and it may be one day revealed in his autobiography) that Dr. Graham privately put intense pressure for a settlement at the highest levels of government.

Graham cannot be blamed for Watergate, for the follies of the Nixon-Agnew team nor the failures of the next president. His conservative theology will always create debate among Christians, but history will probably be most generous to the world's most famous evangelist.

This week's Sunday School lesson

Scripture: Romans 6:1-7:25

FREEDOM and ITS TEMPTATIONS

Another title for today's lesson is "Free But Still Bound" which, in many ways, describes our "freedom" today.

When anyone experiences a sudden change in his way of life he encounters problems. For some persons today it brings on tension.

Many individuals live under continuous nervous tension, especially persons in some of the larger cities. Norman Vincent Peale once wrote that "healing for tension is to get close to nature."

Paul recognized that some of his new followers would not know exactly what to do with the Christian concept of freedom.

Most persons don't really understand the true nature of freedom. For Paul, the new life, of the Spirit, brought to men through Christ's sacrifice of Himself on the cross, frees men from "slavery to the law."

However, a chaotic society will appear if everyone did what he wanted to without regard for his own welfare and the welfare of others.

Although America has been called the land of the free and the home of the brave, we all recognize our obligations now and then to sacrifice our freedoms to help others.

During Paul's days, slavery existed in the Roman Empire. Under such conditions a person was under the domination of another. Paul used to stress one of his major points: A person can be mastered by sin or he can be mastered by Christ.

The Christian enters a new life. He must use responsibly his freedom under grace. Grace does not mean moral license; it means moral power.

When a person became a convert under Paul he threw off his old life, one dominated by sin and death, and made a clean break. Paul uses baptism as a sharing of Christ's burial.

Entering the water has been viewed in The Interpreter's Commentary as being similar to Christ entering the grave; coming up out of the water like Christ's coming out of the tomb.

Paul becomes excited as he notes that the followers in the Church at Rome have ceased being "slaves of sin" and have become "slaves of righteousness."

A fuller explanation follows: "When you were slaves of sin, you were free in regard to righteousness. . . But now that you have been set free from sin and have become slaves of God, the return is sanctification and its end, eternal life."

Thus under God's guidance we no longer are under God's purposes which inspire and create good conduct.

In other words, we now are good because we have the freedom of choice. And Paul has made a valuable guarantee for those who select their choice--eternal life with God.

We all continue to seek some form of freedom, in our daily lives, our choice of jobs, our use of our spare time.

We live in the "free world", a nation free in comparison to those nations that exist under a dictatorship. God doesn't exist as a dictator. He wants followers who select His way because they want to do as He asks.

Samuel Coleridge wrote more than a century ago that our liberty will be saved "by religious conviction, by the faith of individuals, who believe that God wills man to be free but also pure."

When we reject His offer we are committing "the greatest perversion of liberty."

No one will ever be 100% free. But the Christian will know what freedom means to him and will be willing to sacrifice some freedoms here for eternal life.

Alabama minister to conduct revival

Murray Lane Baptist Church, 807 W. Murray Lane, will be led in revival services next week by the Rev. Robert G. Wilkerson, pastor of Inglenook Baptist Church in Birmingham, Ala. Services will begin at 7:30 each night Monday through Sunday.

The Rev. Mr. Wilkerson has served as pastor of churches in Alabama and Kentucky.

He earned a bachelor of arts degree at Samford University in Birmingham and a master of divinity degree from Southern Baptist Theological Seminary in Louisville, Ky.

Prior to entering the ministry, the Rev. Mr. Wilkerson served in the Naval Air Force and worked for Vulcan Rivet and Bolt Corp. at Tarrant, Ala., as a millwright, machinist and inspector for nine years before beginning ministerial studies.

While working in industry, he organized Big Oak Baptist Mission at Argo, Ala., and as pastor, led the mission to organize as the Argo Baptist Church.

He and his wife Ruby are parents of four children.

Rev. Robert Wilkerson

Church of God men to meet at Dexter

DEXTER— The Southeast Missouri Men's Brotherhood of the Church of God of Anderson, Ind., will hold its first meeting at 7:30 tonight at the Dexter Church of God.

Don C. Ritchey, chairman of Church of God International will speak, and men of all denominations may attend.

Among the goals of organization are: to help men experience and develop a vital relationship with Christ, to encourage participation in the overall mission of the church, locally, statewide, and nationally and to challenge men to a more meaningful use of their money, time and talents.

Former Sikeston couple to visit Canalou church

CANALOU-- The Rev. and Mrs. James Hiekes, former music directors of First Assembly of God Church in Sikeston, will be at the Canalou Assembly of God Church for a youth- centered service at 7:30 p.m. Saturday and the morning services on Sunday.

Since leaving Sikeston, the Rev. Mr. and Mrs. Hiekes have pastored and done evangelistic work in California.

In addition to preaching, they will present special music, according to the Rev. T. G. Perry, pastor.

Church accepts credit cards

BUFFALO, N. Y.— A Roman Catholic church here has started accepting credit cards in lieu of cash donations. The Coronation of the Blessed Virgin Mary Church launched the plan as a means of boosting its income.

Paul Totaro, a member of the church's finance committee, said credit cards aid parishioners in budgeting fixed amounts for church contributions.

With credit cards, many church members increased the size of their contributing, Totaro said.

105. Gideon Conquers the Armies of Midian and Amalek

As the 300 men selected for Gideon's army camped beside the well of Harod, the Lord spoke to Gideon and ordered him to go down to the valley where he would discover that the Midianites and Amalekites and other nations of the East were so vast that they were like grasshoppers or sand upon the seashore—with too many camels to count. Gideon, accompanied by his servant Phurah, crept into the encampment just as one of the enemy soldiers related the strange dream of a huge loaf of bread falling into the camp and flattening his tent.

"And his fellow answered and said, This is nothing else save the sword of Gideon, the son of Joash, a man of Israel, for into his hand hath God delivered Midian, and all the host." (Judges 7:14)

Gideon rejoiced at the dream and its interpretation, and quickly returned to his men. He divided his army into three groups, and gave each man a trumpet and a clay pitcher with a torch in it. They then surrounded the enemy host, and upon Gideon's command, blew the trumpets, and broke the clay pitchers with the torches inside. Gideon's army simply stood their places, shouting, "The Sword of the Lord and of Gideon." (Judges 7:18)

Panic and confusion swept over the vast army, and the enemy troops fought and killed one another all across the camp until they finally fled in the night. In this way did the small force of Gideon rout the host of the East.

NEITHER SULTAN NOR CRAZY

KIRIKHAN, Southern Turkey (AP).— Judges in a courtroom in this provincial Turkish town looked at each other with some amazement when a man they had just convicted of assault leapt from the dock shouting, "I'm the Sultan, you have no right to convict me."

The last Sultan of Turkey was deposed 50 years ago.

The judges added a new conviction for contempt, saying Sevket Koldas had "tried to create the impression he was insane, thereby attempting to deceive the court."

Today in U.S. History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, Oct. 19, the 292nd day of 1973. There are 73 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1781, the Revolutionary War neared its end as the British surrendered at Yorktown.

On this date—

In 1735, the second U.S. president, John Adams, was born in Braintree, Mass.

In 1812, French forces under Napoleon Bonaparte began their retreat from Moscow.

In 1912, the Bulgarians began the seige of the Turkish city of Adrianople in the Balkan wars.

In 1942, in World War II, American planes bombed Japanese troops and supply concentrations on Guadalcanal.

In 1954, Britain and Egypt agreed to a withdrawal of British troops from the Suez Canal zone.

released from a Missouri prison.

Thompson has a long arrest record with the Sikeston Police Department and was tried in 1968 for the murder of Mrs. W. R. Lewis of Sikeston, but was acquitted. Mrs. Lewis was murdered in 1965.

He was sentenced to prison in 1972 for a federal firearms violation.

John W. Dean pleads guilty

WASHINGTON (AP) — Ousted White House counsel John W. Dean III pleaded guilty today to conspiring to obstruct the Watergate investigation.

Dean agreed to cooperate fully with the investigation being conducted by the special Watergate prosecutor's office.

In a letter to Dean's attorney, Charles N. Shaffer, special prosecutor Archibald Cox said that in return for Dean's cooperation no further charges would be brought with the exception of perjury if his testimony proves false.

Dean's wife, Maureen, sat in the courtroom when he entered his plea before U.S. District Court Judge John J. Sirica in a climax to more than six months of behind-the-scenes bargaining with the prosecutors.

Dean had held out for total immunity from prosecution before finally agreeing to plead to a single conspiracy charge.

Consumer price increase slows

WASHINGTON (AP) — Increases in consumer prices slowed sharply in September, climbing just three-tenths of one per cent over-all, the Labor Department reported today.

Food prices actually declined during the month, by one-tenth of one per cent, the first decline since last December.

However, the September slowdown in consumer prices likely will not be sustained. Nixon administration economists have forecast inflationary problems in the economy for some time to come.

One factor in the September price slowdown was that prices had increased at near-record levels in August after the lifting of the government's price freeze.

The increase in August was 1.9 per cent for all items and 6.1 per cent for food. Administration economists said then that this big boom in postfreeze prices was sure to be followed by a slowdown in September.

Another factor was that wholesale prices of many farm commodities such as soybeans and corn declined sharply in September.

Two bound over on first degree murder charges

CARUTHERSVILLE — Tommy Lee Bradford, 36, of Caruthersville, and Andrew L. Harris, 23, of St. Louis, were bound over to Circuit Court here yesterday on charges of first degree murder. Judge Sidney Chaffin bound the two men over after a preliminary hearing in Pemiscot County Magistrate Court.

Bradford and Harris are charged with killing a local grocer, Ebb Henry, Sept. 27. The two men are accused of killing Henry, 87, the morning of Sept. 27, in Henry's Grocery Store, located at 1408 Vest in Caruthersville.

Four witnesses were called on by Prosecuting Attorney Art Stephenson to testify. They were policemen Spud Walker and Robert Parr, Pemiscot County Coroner Jimmy Dean, and houswife, Mrs. Dorothy Mae Foreman.

Walker testified that he found a bloody jacket and 115 packs of cigarettes in a traveling bag at the Charles Foreman home in Caruthersville, near where the killing took place. It was at the Foreman home that Bradford and Harris were arrested by Caruthersville police.

Officer Parr told the court that he became suspicious of the two suspects because of what appeared to be blood on Bradford's pants.

Coroner Dean testified that the cause of death was a blow to the head by a blunt instrument. He said an autopsy was performed on the dead man by Dr. Pin Pu of Kennett.

Mrs. Foreman testified that Bradford and Harris were at her house in the early hours of the day that Henry was killed. She said Harris came in her house, left, and then the two men returned with Harris coming in the house again.

She told the court that she was present when Officer Walker found the jacket and cigarettes in the bag and testified that the bag belonged to Harris. She said Harris left the bag in her house when he arrived from St. Louis the day before the killing.

Both Bradford and Harris were arraigned in Pemiscot County Circuit Court before Judge William Ragland Tuesday, the day following the preliminary hearing.

In other Circuit Court news, Danny Forbus, who was on parole on the charge of burglary, had his parole revoked by the judge. Forbus was sentenced to two years in the Department of Corrections and was committed.

Forbus was found guilty May 1 for breaking into the Jerry Hamra Store in Steele Jan. 23rd, while intoxicated, and taking a pair of cowboy boots.

Prosecuting Attorney Stephenson said the parole was revoked because Forbus left the county and went to Florida without the knowledge of Parole Officer James Plassman.

Industries create 1,300 new jobs in Bootheel

MALDEN — Phillip Shelton, director of Bootheel Regional Planning Commission, reported at Thursday night's commission meeting that four new plants, which located in the Bootheel area last year and several expansions, have created 1,300 new jobs and a $9 million payroll increase.

John Oross of Jefferson City, Missouri's first circuit city manager, spoke to the commission about smaller towns interested in the circuit city manager form of government and a plan to furnish technical management assistance for drafting ordinances. He also spoke briefly about a joint computer service for small town accounting systems.

Lt. Gov. William Phelps will attend the next meeting on Nov. 15, Shelton said.

Outwit Winter

Now's the time to make sure your car's up to the rough weather ahead. So you'll enjoy safe, trouble-free driving. And reduce harmful engine emissions. All winter long.

Winter Ready Exhaust System Will Mean Safer Breathing

The motorist can keep right on driving a car with a faulty exhaust system, but he's risking his life to do so — especially in the winter.

Contrary to safety rules, many people drive with closed windows. Thus, without proper ventilation, a motorist would breathe poisonous fumes, which might seep into the passenger compartment — should an exhaust pipe or the muffler be defective.

Muffler manufacturers estimate that over 75 percent of cars over one year old should have some kind of exhaust system parts replacement. It may be only a clamp, but a loose clamp near a joint can be crucial.

It takes only a few minutes to have the exhaust system checked, which can be done while a car is on the lift for lubrication or other winterizing service.

When a car is raised, ruptures or weak spots in the exhaust pipes can be seen — and your service man can check the muffler for clogging. Deterioration of the exhaust system is mainly caused by condensation of the noxious vapors within the pipes.

Unfortunately, few persons ask to have the system inspected until a rusted tail pipe starts rattling — or the noise of a ruptured muffler cannot be ignored.

Noise caused by holes in exhaust parts may be slight at first. The person who drives in heavy traffic with closed windows may not recognize that the sound is coming from his own car. Meanwhile, he is a candidate for CO poisoning.

Only by a thorough check of the exhaust system can the motorist be sure he is not being exposed to the deadly fumes. The great danger is that carbon monoxide is colorless, odorless and tasteless. It creeps up on its victims. The body can collect it over a period of time — therefore, a fatal dose is not necessarily a single large dose.

Exhaust gases also cause poor engine performance. When not fully cleared from the manifold, these fumes tend to dilute the fresh charges of air and fuel, cutting down on engine efficiency and gas mileage.

The muffler handles a certain flow rate of exhaust gases. As these gases pass through a series of holes, baffles and resonance chambers, the muffler reduces the pressure and cools the waste gases before they're passed into the atmosphere.

Any restriction in the exhaust system will cause the engine to perform poorly — and carbon and corrosive matter will accumulate. This clogging also hastens deterioration of the muffler and pipes.

The engine trouble caused by excessive exhaust gases, in addition to the possible harmful effects on the car's occupants, makes it easy to understand why one should keep the exhaust system in good condition.

More Tire Mileage

Let your wife do the driving.

According to Goodyear Tire and Rubber Company, women average 30,000 miles on tires while men average only 20,000, with some men getting as little as 12,000 miles.

Of course the area of the country, road conditions and driving speeds influence tire wear.

Most wives don't travel 70 mph to the grocery store so maybe this explains Goodyear's findings.

Take a look at these brake shoes from a car that . . . "seemed to be stopping okay . . . just pulling a little bit to one side." Brake linings worn to this extreme are not only a safety hazard, they also damage the brake drums. The result: a higher than normal repair bill. Note, too, that the wear on the left side is much greater than on the right, a good case in point for having all four brakes checked. Car Care Council asks, how long has it been since you've had your brakes checked?

Slippery Driving Hazards

Autumn and winter driving can hold numerous hidden hazards. Wet leaves on the road surface or patches of ice on bridges or shady pavement can be far more dangerous than driving on newly fallen snow.

If you run into icy stretches or slick pavement, reduce speed but don't slam on the brakes. If you brake too hard, you're likely to lose traction and start skidding. Also, avoid any abrupt steering movements.

If your car should go into a slide, don't panic — turn the steering wheel in the direction the car is sliding and allow the car to reduce speed by taking your foot off the accelerator. If you must use the brake, pump it gently.

If you have stopped on a slippery surface, accelerate slowly, in this situation as well. Sudden movements can cause your car to go out of control.

In cold, rainy weather bridges freeze sooner than the rest of the road surface. Be especially careful to avoid skids on bridges.

Car in Condition?

Compulsory car checks are turning up interesting facts about the cars we drive.

Headlights are out of adjustment on 38% of all cars.

40% have improper tire pressure.

20% have contaminated transmission fluid.

49% have some form of ignition system breakdown.

28% have carburetor malfunctions and 35% have incorrect timing.

These are the areas your service outlet should look at the next time you put your car in for a check. In at least three of these areas the fix is fast, simple and costs very little.

Checklist— Tune-Up Number 2

1. Visually check coolant level for indication of leaks or excessive oil content.
2. Check with pressure tester for internal and external leaks.
3. Visually check oil for water content.
4. Test thermostat for proper opening and closing.
5. Check heater valves.
6. Check heat gauge for accuracy.
7. Drain and back flush cooling system.
8. Clean radiator core of bugs and check for clogging.
9. Clean engine heavily covered with grease and oil.
10. Test radiator pressure cap.
11. Check radiator neck cap seat for nicks or scratches that could release pressure.
12. Check water pump bearings.
13. Check fan blades and pulley for alignment and balance.
14. Inspect all hose and clamps for deterioration.
15. Check core plugs and drain cocks for leakage.
16. Refill system with coolant and check for airlocks.
17. Recheck entire system for leaks.
18. Check and adjust tension of V-belts.
19. Check and reset ignition timing to eliminate ping.
20. In cases where cooling system continues to overheat, check other possible causes.
21. Replace belts, hose, clamps, thermostat and cap as necessary.

Put Car on 'I-C-E,' Canadian Council Advises

Experts List Three Major Factors Affecting Auto Performance When Temperature Drops

If you've put off having your car serviced for cold weather, let the word ICE serve as a reminder. I, C and E are the initials for the Ignition, Cooling and Electrical systems, the three main factors affecting your car's dependability when temperatures drop.

According to Car Care Council of Canada, these are the points that should get attention:

IGNITION SYSTEM — You may be well advised to invest in a tune-up if you're nearing the 10,000 mile mark since the last time that work was done. This usually involves replacement of distributor points, condenser, and rotor plus spark plugs (and sometimes wiring). The service includes adjustment of ignition timing, idle speed and automatic choke. Your mechanic also will check on the condition of the various filters and pollution control devices so essential to efficient engine operation.

COOLING SYSTEM—There's more to cooling system maintenance than flushing the radiator and replacing the anti-freeze. The system should be pressure tested for potential leaks. Hoses and belts should be examined and replaced as necessary.

The thermostat, which maintains engine temperature within specified limits, should be checked, too. If it's not working properly you could have either an overheating engine or reduced engine efficiency. A faulty thermostat also can cause your car's heater to lose its effectiveness.

* * *

ELECTRICAL SYSTEM—That sickening "click-click" that signifies a dead battery may be nothing more than a corroded connection creating an abnormal resistance in your starting circuit. Or it could be a problem in your car's alternator or voltage regulator.

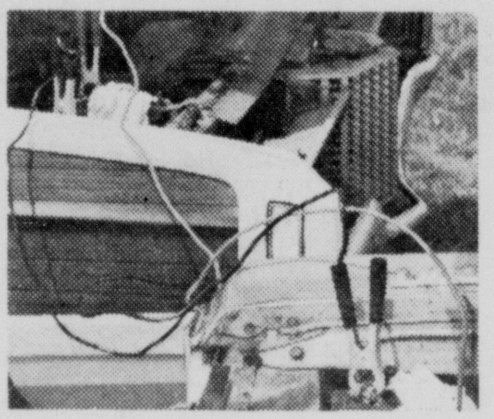
Then again, it could be the battery itself. A battery's average life is from 26 to 36 months.

The Daily Standard, Sikeston, Mo.
Friday, October 19, 1973

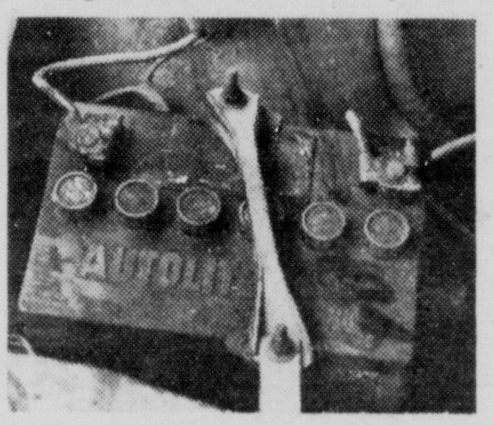
CHARGE

If you've ever had to decide between the inconvenience of a car that won't start and the potential complications of using battery booster cables, here's some advice.

Once you learn the proper way of using the life-giving cables, the risk of botching the job is minimal. A word of caution before you even begin: Buy the best cables available. Poor quality cables won't last long and can do damage to the car's electrical system.



When using cables make sure the vehicles are not touching one another to avoid creating a dangerous electric circuit. Then make sure all battery-operated accessories like lights, radios and heater are turned off. Set your parking brakes and have transmission in neutral or park.



Locate on both batteries the Positive and Negative terminals. These may either be indicated by the letter POS for Positive and NEG for Negative, or by the plus sign (+) for Positive and minus sign (—) for Negative. It may be necessary to use a rag to wipe off grime to locate the markings. The rag becomes further useful as . . . a cover for the vent holes, since removing the vent caps on both batteries and covering with a cloth is a safety precaution. Not removing the caps creates the danger of an explosion. Now with the engines still turned off it is time to connect the cables themselves in the following manner:

Connect one cable to the Positive terminal of the booster battery and the other end of the same cable to the Positive terminal of the weak battery. Take the other cable and connect to the Negative terminal of the booster battery and to a ground connection of the disabled vehicle (such as the engine block). Start the engine of the booster car and then the engine of the weak car. Once the engine is started disconnect in the reverse order.

If you still have qualms about doing it, then by all means call a professional service outlet. But better yet, get your car's ignition system in shape and avoid the need of ever having to use the cables.

Car Care Can Help Whip Fuel Shortages

Saving Two Gallons Per Car Is Goal

"If everyone in this country used one less gallon of gasoline a week, there wouldn't be a shortage."

* * *

That dramatic statement was contained in a newspaper advertisement run by one of the nation's leading oil companies. It seems like an enormous task to cut down on gasoline consumption by more than 200 million gallons a week or 10 plus billion gallons a year. But when the problem is examined on an individual vehicle-by-vehicle basis, the task is not as overwhelming as it first appears.

Consider this. There is about one motor vehicle in this country for every two persons. Thus, if every vehicle would use two fewer gallons of gasoline a week, there would be no shortage.

Tune-up is Key

According to Champion Spark Plug Company, saving this amount of fuel can be achieved, even without reducing the amount of driving done.

The major part of that savings can be achieved by making sure the car's engine is in tune. Tests conducted by Champion in the United States, Canada and Mexico showed what a fuel waster an untuned engine can be.

Cars were tested with an engine overdue for tune-up. (More than 10,000 miles traveled since the last tune-up.) Next cars were checked with new spark plugs installed and then with a complete tune-up.

Other Assets

There are a variety of ways to help make up the rest of the gallonage to bring weekly savings to over two gallons a week.

- Make sure your tires are properly inflated. Underinflated tires are gas wasters.
- Accelerate smoothly. "Hot rod" type starts consume enormous amounts of fuel.
- "Play" the traffic lights and avoid stop and start driving as much as possible. If you have to spend long periods of time idling, it's better to shut off the engine.
- Watch your speed. You use over 25 per cent more fuel traveling at 70 miles per hour than you do at 50.

Also, don't overfill your gas tank to avoid possible fuel spillage. Avoid unnecessary use of air conditioning and other power consuming options.

Here's What You Must Do to .....

Get Your Auto to Last Longer

Keep it from Junk Heap Prematurely by Taking Care of Key Systems

With new car sales hovering around all-time record volumes this year, the pundits and prophets have offered a wide variety of reasons for the boom. Among the reasons most often cited was this: Cars in the near future may be higher in price due to emissions and safety systems mandated by the government.

Still it seems that many 1973 and 1974-model car buyers want to take advantage of lowest possible prices now and presumably want to keep these cars as long as they can. Certainly, new cars will continue to be attractive buys for millions of motorists annually. The thrill of new car ownership is a never-ending one.

Lamentable History of Neglect

While the theory is sound, the motoring public will have to do a lot better job than they have been doing if they want their new cars to last. For the lamentable history of car neglect that has been so evident in this country has always meant that vehicles are ready for the scrap heap well before their time.

There are more motor vehicles junked in this nation every year than there are vehicles registered in all of South America. Only five nations in the world have more cars than the number of cars relegated to scrap heaps here each year.

And a large proportion of our derelict vehicle population got that way because of neglect.

If you want to get your car that extra couple of years, you must pay more attention to car care.

The benefits of car care outweigh the costs considerably.

For example, the nationally-syndicated columnist Sylvia Porter recently noted, "Tune-ups pay for themselves in savings on fuel consumption and engine wear. And as gas prices climb, a tune-up will more than pay for itself."

Other instances of how caring for a car lengthens its lifespan and saves money in the meantime are many.

- Changing oil and oil filters and lubrication at recommended intervals helps prevent premature engine and chassis wear.
- Balancing and rotating tires and aligning wheels add 25 per cent or more to the life of a set of tires.

This does not even take into consideration the servicing of safety components that help prevent accidents. Certainly keeping brakes, lights, tires, windshield wipers in good operating condition are keys to safe driving. Maintaining the cooling system is another must for trouble-free driving.

Also, many cars are premature junkyard candidates because of body neglect. So, keeping a car clean, free of rust spots and dents can add years and value to your car.

Winter Especially Hard on Cars

In this fall and winter season approaching, the elements are particularly hard on a car. In colder climates, the ignition and cooling systems especially take a severe beating.

So, to make sure your car gets through the season in good shape and to add those extra years of life to your vehicle, bring it in to your favorite service outlet for a thorough check-up and for necessary services.

This Care For Your Car section is devoted to helping you know what it takes to keep your car young as the miles and months pile on.

Lengthy Stretch at Wheel Shortens Trip - Too Soon

Tests conducted in the U.S. have come out with some facts on how a motorist's ability to drive is impaired by long stretches behind the wheel.

On the average, after four hours of driving, a motorist takes 20 per cent longer between corrections of the steering wheel.

The automobile with a fatigued driver drifts more than twice as far from the center of the lane.

If there is a blow-out before the driver regains control, the car will swerve three times as far as when he is fresh and alert.

Tests were made in a Cornell Aeronautical Laboratory (CAL) Inc. simulator in Buffalo, and are being followed up by over-the-road driving in actual vehicles. Both set of tests are for the U.S. Department of Transportation.

The simulator puts the "driver" into conditions he'd actually find on the road with these conditions being controlled and set up by a computer. He "drives" by means of a steering wheel and accelerator and brake pedals.

The value of rest pauses in long distance driving also acquired some support from the tests, says CAL's magazine, Research Trends. Each driver, after completing the four-hour stint, took a four-minute break, then returned to the driving simulator for a brief additional run.

After the rest, drivers had accuracy equal to that at the end of their first hour of driving.

Weight on Tires

If you will be using a trailer, camper or motor home be sure to check the weight you are putting on your tires. Surveys show about 20% of all recreation vehicles are exceeding the maximum loads their tires should carry.

You can check with your tire dealer, your vehicle owner's manual or your dealer to determine maximum tire load. Then have your vehicle weighed, fully loaded, on a public scale.

A vehicle with overloaded tires will handle poorly and in case of a blowout control problems will greatly increase the chance of a serious accident.

It Takes More than Anti-Freeze to . . .

Prepare Your Car for Winter

Getting your car ready for winter's severe temperatures and driving conditions should involve a lot more than just adding anti-freeze. The American Petroleum Institute has developed a check list that may help you get ready for the cold weather ahead.

But first, let's look at anti-freeze. Today's cars are designed to use the "permanent" or ethylene glycol type — not the older "alcohol" base variety. Although it is called permanent anti-freeze, it should be replaced at least once a year, or if your car is equipped with air conditioning, twice a year.

Change Anti-Freeze

Anti-freeze solutions also act as rust inhibitors and water-pump lubricants and contain additives that lose their effectiveness after a year's driving.

When changing anti-freeze, begin with a careful check of the condition of the radiator hoses, thermostat, and radiator. Have your mechanic "pressure test" your cooling system. Replace worn hoses before they leak.

If all systems check out, drain and flush the radiator. Replace the coolant liquid with a 50-50 mixture of water and ethylene glycol type anti-freeze. This will offer maximum protection. Do NOT use 100% anti-freeze, use the 50-50 mixture—it's cheaper and more efficient.

Do not overfill the radiator; fill only one or two inches from the top — if it is too full, the overflow that occurs when the engine heats up will spill the anti-freeze onto the street.

Check the tension and condition of your fan and generator belts. These are critical to proper cooling and battery charging. Check with your service station about the multi-grade oil suitable for winter use.

Remember Snow Tires

Get your snow tires put on early and avoid the long wait during the first snow fall.

Park your car in a garage, if possible, to keep the engine from getting cold.

Drive on the "top half" of the tank. This prevents water condensation from forming in your tank which can freeze and plug your fuel lines. In other words, don't wait until the tank is almost empty to fill it up.

Warm-Up Vital

Be sure to give your car a moment or two to warm up properly, but don't let it idle for long periods of time. This can foul the spark plugs and also wastes gasoline. Remember, cars pollute more when first started.

The Daily Standard,

Sikeston, Mo.

Your Guide to Tire Safety

Every detective deserving of that name knows about fingerprints. The presence of a clear set of prints can identify the culprit every time and solve the case.

Tires also have their own brand of tell-tale prints. In fact, many a tough case has been cracked by the presence of a good set of tire prints identified at the scene of the crime.

On a more prosaic level, the appearance of the tire itself can identify another kind of culprit. From examining the tire, it is possible to learn about the malfunction of some component of your car, such as bad shock absorbers or front end alignment.

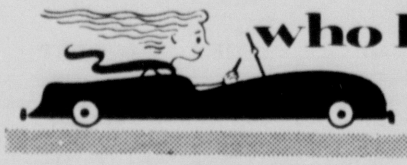
ADVICE TO WOMEN who DRIVE... and MEN, Too...



from DeDe Benson... a woman who does

Dear DeDe:

The age of chivalry isn't only dead. It's mummified. Last week after work, I found my car stuck in a snow bank in the parking lot. Instead of helping me get out, the "men" just laughed, said something about "Women's Lib" and blithely drove away. My car wasn't stuck so deep that a little shove from a couple of the guys couldn't have helped. As it turned out I had to call a wrecker and was an hour late getting home. What's with men these days?

GERRY Y.
West Allis, Wisc.

Dear Gerry:

You might ask, what's with people today? Your co-workers' inconsiderate behavior is not merely just a man-woman thing. It's a human matter. People don't want to get involved. They should have helped if you were a woman, a fellow man or a creature from outer space. You may not be able to change human nature but you could perhaps have helped yourself. Remember this if you get stuck again. If the car isn't too deeply embedded in snow, you can rock yourself out of a drift. First, make sure your exhaust pipe isn't embedded in the snow. If it is, clear the snow away or you risk actual carbon monoxide poisoning. Then, with a gentle foot on the gas pedal, shift from reverse to drive in a steady rocking motion. It might help if your car trunk contains a shovel to remove snow and an old rug to help give you traction.

Dear DeDe:

I own a small machine shop and I'm getting the reputation of being some kind of Scrooge. It seems every time the temperature drops below 10 degrees above zero, about a quarter of my employees are late to work. So I dock their pay. I figure that if 75 percent of my people can start their cars and get to work on time, then the other 25 percent should be able to, too. It always seems to be the same people who can't start, so I figure they should do something about it. Am I wrong?

THE BOSS
Oakville, Ontario

Dear Boss:

Maybe you are being too harsh on your employees the first time they are late due to a "can't start." But beyond that first time, I'm with you all the way. If a car's engine is in good condition, there's no reason it shouldn't start in cold weather. With a strong battery, tuned engine and healthy electrical system, there should be no starting trouble. Remind your people that engine care is cheaper in the long run when they consider the cost of road service, not to mention lost wages.

New Plugs Help

With new plugs alone, there was an average fuel savings of 6.2 per cent. Once a complete tune-up was performed, average savings was 8.2 per cent.

Thus between one and two gallons of gasoline per tankful can be saved by a tuned engine. So, if you use a tankful of gas a week, you've almost done your part to help alleviate the fuel shortage.

Power Steering Maintenance Is Simpler than You Think

If your car has power steering, you may be under the impression that this device is extremely complex, and can be serviced only by a highly trained specialist using special tools.

Actually, this is not the case. A power steering system is considerably more complicated than a non-power system. But most power steering maintenance work can be done by the average automotive service technician.

At the heart of your car's power steering system is the hydraulic pump that supplies the pressure to turn your car's wheels when you turn the steering wheel. This pump rarely breaks down, however, provided you make sure its supply of hydraulic fluid does not get too low.

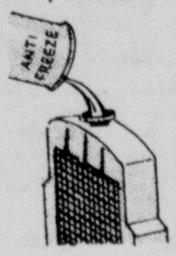
So the most important thing to do to keep your car's power steering system out of trouble is to have the fluid level checked periodically. And when you have the fluid checked, you should also have the serviceman check the hoses that connect the pump to the other elements in the power steering system. Because leakage here is the main cause of fluid loss, which in turn is the main cause of power steering troubles.

One other item that should be checked periodically is the belt that connects the hydraulic pump to your car's engine. If this belt breaks, your whole power steering system will conk out instantly.

How can you tell if your power steering system needs attention? Usually, the first sign is either an unusual noise (squealing, chattering, or knocking sound) or a change in the "feel" of your steering (sluggishness, jerkiness, or a tendency to pull to one side).

If any of these symptoms occur, you should waste no time in getting your system checked; early attention can prevent big problems later. Better still, you should have your fluid, hoses and pump-drive belt checked every month or two even if you don't notice any signs of trouble. The best time to stop trouble is before it starts.

Periodic changes in "permanent" anti-freeze are necessary because:



A. There may be a breakdown in composition of various rust inhibiting elements in overaged anti-freeze.

B. Anti-freeze loses 5° effectiveness for every six months of use.

C. Old anti-freeze gets into the crank case and affects lubrication.

Waiting for the Tow Truck

Waiting for a tow truck to help your car get started in winter is not one of life's most enchanting pastimes. Chances are, you're late for work, an important appointment or anything preferable to waiting for the wrecker.

It's too cold to practice your putting on the front lawn and you don't dare risk a short nap for fear that the road service driver may come and go before you can spot him.

So, what do you do?

Here's a suggestion that can both help occupy your time and prove helpful in preventing future starting problems. Pay attention to the signals your car is giving you while you are attempting to start it. Analyze the sounds and the odors and try and figure out just what the problem is.

No, it's not as simple as "my battery is run down." Your battery may be run down, all right, but most likely any battery problem is caused by malfunction of some other component.

If while attempting to start the engine, you hear the starter cranking but nothing happens, suspect one or more of the following conditions, Champion Spark Plug Company suggests.

- Worn spark plugs
- Cracked distributor cap
- Worn rotor
- Burnt, carbonized or "stuck" points

HINTS FOR TRANSMISSION MAINTENANCE

Avoid quick starts. Give your gears a chance to shift gradually. A smooth take-off is easier on the passengers, too.)

If your car has a manual transmission, avoid riding the clutch. When your foot rests on the clutch pedal, often the clutch won't engage properly. Also additional frictional heat is built up between clutch pressure plate and lining, causing both to wear out prematurely.

Periodically, check transmission fluid level and differential fluid level. Change the transmission fluid at recommended intervals and whenever fluid becomes contaminated. If necessary, have all parts cleaned at this time.

Replace transmission filter or clean fluid-screen when fluid is changed and as otherwise required. Check and/or change transmission modulator if your car is so equipped. Also adjust bands (if your transmission has them) at intervals recommended by the manufacturer or more often as necessary.

YOU NOTICE . . .	THIS MAY MEAN . . .	CAUSED BY . . .	YOU SHOULD . . .
a chattering sound when car first begins to move with a manual transmission.	the clutch is not engaging properly	oil on the clutch, or you may have worn parts	have a qualified mechanic check out the problem
same as above with an automatic transmission	the clutch is not engaging properly	a worn clutch or bands	have a qualified mechanic check out the problem
your car doesn't respond to engine speedups	your clutch is slipping	a worn clutch or one out of adjustment	have a qualified mechanic check out the problem

NOTE: There are a number of other transmission problems too complicated for discussion here. If your transmission does things or makes noises that seem strange, don't ignore these symptoms of malfunction. You'll find it more convenient and more economical to correct transmission problems as early as possible.

The transmission system of the average car is something most motorists take for granted. While transmission usually will run efficiently for many miles with a minimum of maintenance, there are still critical adjustments and services that must be performed. The Fram Corporation offers some tips on transmission care in a new booklet it has prepared for the car owner. For information on receiving it, write Fram Corporation, Providence, R. I. 02916.

Get Your Winter 'Whoa' Power Ready—Have Brakes Checked

Dependable brakes on a car are a year-round necessity — but, in many areas, winter brings more frequent split-second demands on the brakes.

Like other automotive parts, brakes can be affected by temperature changes. Pre-winter inspection may reveal a need for brake adjustment.

A thorough brake and wheel inspection may also reveal that wheels are out of alignment, which causes excessive tire wear.

Brakes, as well as wheels, may be out of balance after long trips on hot pavement and bumpy side roads during the summer. If your car pulls to the right or left when stopped from a slow speed — less than 10 miles per hour — the brakes are out of balance and your car is unsafe. On wet pavement, unbalanced brakes can cause a car to skid.

Brake balancing and a good alignment job provides the motorist with extra protection for winter driving, because the car will respond better in unfavorable driving conditions.

Brake systems should be inspected every 10,000 miles, if dependable stopping efficiency is to be maintained. If frequent braking and fast stops are required in your driving, earlier inspections are a wise practice.

If adjustments are not needed, you're money ahead —if they are, the repair cost will be small, compared to the loss that could be suffered due to brake failure.

Do-It-Yourself Safety—Check Belts, Hoses

Vital Operation of Car Affected; What's More: Special Training, Tools Aren't Required

Today's cars are more complicated than ever, but there are still some under-the-hood things you can do for yourself. Some, like checking your battery, radiator, and oil level, are things you probably already do. But you may not have realized that you can also check your own belts and hoses in a jiffy, without special tools or training.

In fact, more and more car owners are not only checking these vital parts, but are also discovering that it's not too difficult to install the replacements themselves.

These often-neglected belts and hoses can cause a lot of trouble if they're allowed to deteriorate. A loose V-belt can cause your motor to overheat, your gas consumption to rise, and your accessories to malfunction. And a burst hose can cause your engine to overheat to the point of total destruction.

The Gates Rubber Company offers the following tips on checking belts and hoses.

BELTS

Most belts look fine on the top, even when they're in terrible condition. So, when you're checking your car's V-belts, be sure you look at the sides and bottoms. Here's what to look for:

- Cracks on the underside are rapidly made larger by flexing. Belt can break without warning.
- Glazing — slick hard sides cause low battery and overheating.
- Grease-softened undercore and slick sides cause slipping — also rot rubber.
- Peeling — Undercore peels or frays at bottom corners so that belt runs rough — soon fails.
- Split belt — Top of belt may look good, but undercore may be split or sides badly worn.

And while you're checking the condition of your V-belts, you should also check to be sure that they're properly tensioned. A loose and slipping belt slows fan, pump and generator — causes poor cooling, overheating, battery failure. It is difficult to over tension a belt with ordinary tools.

Check belt tension and tighten as necessary. As a rule of thumb, tension is proper when belts can be pushed down about ¼" at midpoint between pulleys.

HOSES

Many hose defects can be spotted just by looking, but it's always a good idea to check each hose for softening or hardening, by squeezing. Rubber hoses should be firm, but not brittle. Things to check for are the following:

- Cracks and breaks cause leaks that can't be stopped by tightening clamp. Squeeze. If cracks go to cords, replace hose.
- Hardened hose is stiff — transmits shock to radiator — fails without warning. You can't seal by tightening clamps.
- Swelling — Spongy ends or swelling indicate that hose has been ruined by oil or grease.
- Hidden failure—Hose may look good, but it may be deteriorated inside, clogging radiator with particles. Squeeze it, and replace if soft.
- Worn clamps—When checking hose, replace clamps that can't be tightened. If you replace hose, always replace clamps.

More Vehicles Boosting Need For Mechanics

Five years from now there will be a need for at least 100,000 more mechanics beyond the approximately 600,000 we have now. With more than 120,000,000 cars expected on the roads in 5 years, that is a conservative estimate.

With car population growing at the rate of 3.4 million a year, there is now only one mechanic for each 170 vehicles. The ideal is one for each 80 cars.

Young people apparently do not understand the earnings and opportunities in the job. Average hourly earnings of mechanics in Detroit are now $6.13, with some making much more. $25,000 a year is not unusual.

No auto mechanic will ever be out of work, says the industry, and when "young people" are urged to get in, the ladies are not excluded.

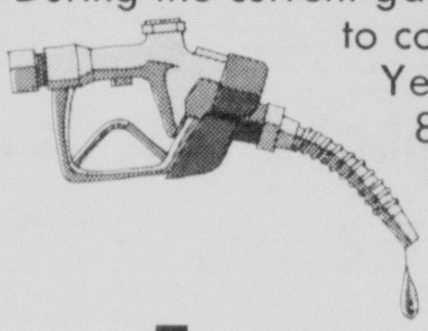
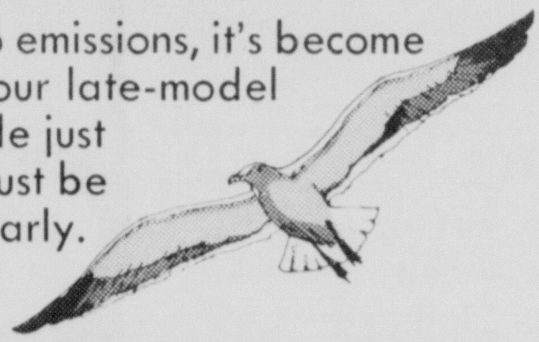
Three timely reasons why your car should be tuned regularly.

To save gasoline.



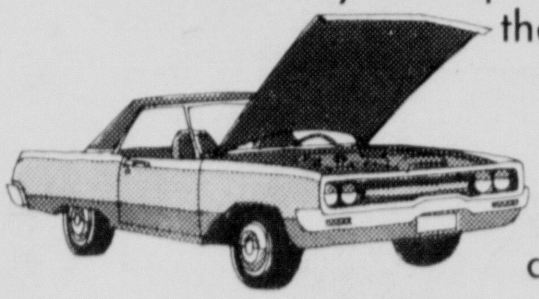
During the current gasoline shortage, it's important for us all to conserve the amount of gas we use. Yet tests have shown an untuned car uses 8.2% more gasoline than a tuned car on the average. And that's more than a gallon in every tankful.

To save our environment.



In recent tests and talk about auto emissions, it's become clear that the pollution controls on our late-model cars are working. And it's been made just as clear that the pollution devices must be maintained and the cars tuned regularly. To keep harmful emissions down.

To save yourself from winter weather worries.



Other tests by Champion Spark Plug Company have shown that an untuned car is especially troublesome during winter. Cars needing tune-ups had twice as many "won't starts" as tuned cars. And the untuned cars took an average of 15% longer to start.

More gasoline. Cleaner air. Trouble-free driving. They all can be yours if you take your car in for a tune-up. Once each year or every 10,000 miles. With the spark plug brand 22 million people have switched to. Champion.
